

"Paper Lion" - GCR/RV SITREP - Sunday - August 13, 2017

Very hard to impeach a sitting US President during a potential time of war?

Even harder to RV though:(

Isn't it interesting how two "potential wars" suddenly arose in both North Korea and Venezuela at exactly the same time Special Prosecutor Bob Mueller is closing his investigative noose around President Trump's closest confidants?

Hard to RV without the Republic's global flash bang... interesting strategy by the cabal to stay relevant by destroying its remaining perceived legitimacy faster.

Remember, the more chaotic American political events are in the news, the closer we are to the global financial reforms unleashing their philanthropic fury.

The Trump political madness we are all subjected to daily is the cabal's old "break the glass" strategy for starting WW3 -- someplace, anyplace and yesterday.

Also keep in mind all back-of-the-bank global banking reforms structurally have long completed and all redemption bases and off site centers are simply awaiting final release authorization instruction.

So there is no legitimate monetary drama anymore, and there is no legitimate military drama in terms of going to war, as Trump has no nuke codes because he's not Republic President per Republic & military sources.

This makes Primma Donna a paper lion at best. Digging his own grave tweet by tweet, radical comment by radical comment.

And because China long ago disabled the North Korean nuclear program in exchange for keeping the country solvent monetarily, where is this insanity coming from?

Answer: desperation. Forcing the Pentagon to launch a preemptive first strike to "protect an ally" is the cabal last, best chaotic chance to stave off the RV.

But Dunford ain't having any of it--and why today he is physically "inside the hot zone," to reassure the world there is no legitimate threat posed by the US military (by the guy who does have the nuke launch codes) against the Korean Peninsula.

Meaning, the remaining cabal minions are now taking their last collective breath before death, including those die hard agents who create needless violence by in-sighting fake "white supremacist hate" in Virginia yesterday.

Absolutely anything to gin up enough chaos to stop the RV. Can you imagine a world without such man-made generated hell on earth?

The cabal sure can, and why they are throwing the kitchen sink at the good guys here at the bitter end.

So stay strong way-seers. The light at the end of the GCR/RV tunnel is both blinding and growing every hour and straight into our tired but resilient third eye.

God is with us
