Introduction
Jeremiah impresses modern readers on so many levels. His biography is compelling, but his prophetic record is even greater. Jeremiah is credited not only with the prophecy that bears his name and tells story, but also with the short book that succeeds it in the canon—Lamentations. As a man, Jeremiah is noted for his courage, humility and sensitivity, making him the weeping prophet, but not a weak one. The prophet’s task was to convince his countrymen that the Babylonian threat was not only real, but certain, even as false prophets assured the same audience that all was well. Jeremiah lived about six hundred years before Christ and labored during a time of international turbulence and Hebrew decline.

Lesson 13: Review
Text: Jeremiah 52:1-34

Habakkuk pleaded with God to get Judah’s attention, but when he told him that he would use the wicked, brutal Chaldeans to do that very thing, the prophet was shocked, thinking God could not use more wicked men to punish “less wicked ones.” Eventually, he understood and resigned himself to his fate.

4. What did Zedekiah do when the Babylonians breached Jerusalem’s walls and found a city in famine (52:4-11)? What became of him? What had Jeremiah prophesied (32:4, 34:3) that now fits nicely with Ezekiel’s prediction (12:13)?

King Zedekiah fled the city and made it as far a the plains of Jericho, where he was overtaken and captured. He was taken to Babylon and made to watch his sons be executed before his own eyes were put out and he was imprisoned until he died. Zedekiah saw Nebuchadnezzar, but although he moved to Babylon, he never saw it due to his blindness!

Great Themes of Jeremiah

Lesson 6: Restoration

Text: Jeremiah 30:1-33:26

1. This section is called the Book of Consolation because it contains very positive and somewhat unexpected messages of hope about the future (30:1-3). What is the initial promise?

2. What is illustrated by the men with their hands over their loins (30:4-7)?

3. Who is at the heart of Israel’s and Judah’s future promise (30:8-11; cf. Daniel 9:25-26)? While there was no one to plead Judah’s cause, what is the present role of the promised prince (30:12-17; First John 2:1-2, Hebrews 7:25)?

4. Why were outcast Judah’s wounds incurable? Who were were her predators and what did God predict for them?

5. These promises and predictions go beyond a simple national restoration of ancient Israel to the coming of the world’s messiah (30:18-24). What fleshly Israel failed to obtain, spiritual Israel enjoys. What is spiritual Israel and where does her king reign (Gal. 6:16, Romans 2:28-29, Second Corinthians 6:16-18, First Peter 2:9-10, Acts 2:29-36)?

6. Jeremiah’s prophecy continues to blend the physical (Israel’s restoration) with the spiritual (the coming of the Christ). The divided kingdoms will be reunited after the exile to await a union with Gentile believers in Christ (31:1-15; cf. Ezekiel 37). So why was Rachel weeping (cf. Matthew 2:16-18)?
7. What was the result when Israel, the backsliding daughter “kicked herself” over her idolatry and moral sinfulness (31:16-22)?

8. What made Jeremiah’s sleep sweet (31:23-40, cf. Hebrews 8:8-12, 10:16-17)? What is this new covenant (Matthew 26:28, Colossians 2:13-14)?

11. Still imprisoned, Jeremiah is visited again by the Lord who reiterates his restoration promises. What is the good thing he planned (33:1-16)? What is the significance of the “Branch” imagery (33:17-18; cf. Romans 1:3-4)?

12. The Jews’ forlorn complaint here (33:17-26) foreshadows the way they felt when the Messiah came and invited Gentiles into the kingdom (Romans 10:21-11:2). What is the real reason for this apparent abandonment?

Lesson 7: Jerusalem’s Last Days
Text: Jeremiah 34:1-39:18

2. Describe the predicted fate of Zedekiah (34:2-7). What was the only mercy granted to him?

4. What form of “liberty” did God proclaim against Judah when she recaptured her slaves after initially releasing them (34:17-22)?

5. Proclamation and sharing of liberty by those whose know its benefits is quite important to God. What did Jesus have in mind when he quoted Isaiah on this subject (Luke 4:17-21; cf. Romans 6:15-23, Second Corinthians 3:17, James 1:25, First Peter 2:16, 2 Peter 2:19)? What is not a part of this liberty?

6. Earlier, the Rechabites were nomads related to the Kenites and were friendly to Israel (35:1-11; cf. First Chronicles 2:55, Second Kings 10:5). They had inherited two rules from Jonadab (cf. Second Kings 10:15-17). What were they?

7. Why had God told Jeremiah to bring them in and offer them wine (35:12-19)? Compare to Isaiah 1:2-6 and Malachi 1:6.
