

The Snowman and the Wall

"Hi I am Bob and as you may know I am a Snowman". I live in the Arctic but for me life is difficult because I live 1,000,000 years into the future. It's not how you know it. So I have a friend at the park. Shall we meet him said the snowman". Don't worry it was a rhetorical question. Follow me.

Let's go to the park weal meet him there I will warn you he does not speak much. By the Time we were there it was dark and gloomy. All the paths where covered in slippery moss. "Come on my friend is just over heard." It was a wall. We had come all this way to see and talk to a brick wall. "Are you shore it is a brick wall because I think it looks like a Lego brick wall". "I want to touch it". "No don't AAAAGGGGHHHH....."

Beep, beep, beep. I can't believe you touched the wall you stupid snowman..... Snowman, snowmen oh please wake up snowman. That's when they noticed they were in hospital. That's also when he found out that the Snowman had melted. He was the one who felt the guilt of shouting at Mr Snowman. So if you see a living snowman run, run away. And never go there again.

By jack c