Title: Hate Crime Reporting

WHEREAS, a principal strategic goal of the International Association of Official Human Rights Agencies (IAOHRA) is to promote efforts to combat hate crime activities; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (F.B.I.) Civil Rights Division defines a hate crime as a “criminal offense against a person or property motivated in whole or in part by an offender's bias against a race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, ethnicity, gender, or gender identity”; and

WHEREAS, most hate crimes are never reported to law enforcement because targeted communities feel unsafe reporting them, reasonably doubt that law enforcement will respond effectively, find reporting too cumbersome, or distrust law enforcement; and

WHEREAS, immigrant communities specifically fear deportation or detention if they alert law enforcement; and

WHEREAS, existing hate crime legislation grants authority to federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies and prosecutors to investigate and prosecute hate crimes; and

WHEREAS, there are substantial disparities between the number of hate crimes committed, the number of hate crimes reported to local law enforcement, and the number of hate crimes reported to the F.B.I.; and

WHEREAS, these disparities are problematic, suggesting that both the pervasiveness of hate crimes and whether current efforts to stop them are effective are unknown; and

WHEREAS, the failure to monitor or address hate crimes erodes the trust between victimized communities and law enforcement agencies; and

WHEREAS, law enforcement hate crime reporting to the F.B.I. Uniform Crime Reporting System (UCR) is currently voluntary; thus, it is subject to the whims, politics, available resources, and perceived priorities of law enforcement officials; and

WHEREAS, in its most recent UCR report, released in November 2018, the F.B.I. reported that at least 91 cities with populations exceeding 100,000 either did not report any data to the F.B.I. or affirmatively reported zero hate crimes; and

WHEREAS, officers and prosecutors may need training to identify, investigate, and accurately report hate crimes and bias incidents.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA supports state or national legislation to incentivize or compel jurisdictions to accurately and uniformly report hate crimes to the F.B.I.

Title: Law Enforcement Accountability

WHEREAS, the International Association of Official Human Rights Agencies (IAOHRA) believes that an injustice to one is an injustice to all and embraces the ideology of unalienable human rights for all people; and

WHEREAS, a principal objective of IAOHRA is to enhance human rights practices under the law; and

WHEREAS, law enforcement officers are trained at various levels of force, including non-lethal force; and

WHEREAS, Tennessee v. Garner, 471 U.S. 1 (1985), held that under the Fourth Amendment, a law enforcement officer pursuing a fleeing suspect may use lethal force to preclude escape only if “the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others;” and

WHEREAS, as a result of this decision, law enforcement officers may simply state that they feared for their life to justify shooting a person; and

WHEREAS, existing law authorizes a law enforcement officer to use reasonable force to effect an arrest, prevent escape, or overcome resistance, but it does not require an officer to retreat or desist from an attempt to make an arrest because of resistance or threatened resistance of the person being arrested; and

WHEREAS, many law enforcement related homicides deprive individuals of the due process of law guaranteed by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and

WHEREAS, law enforcement officers must be held accountable for the excessive use of force and/or unauthorized use of tactics that result in grievous injury or death.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA will work to update legislative language to hold law enforcement officers accountable for the excessive use of force and/or unauthorized tactics that result in grievous injury or death; and

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED, that IAOHRA will work to legislatively redefine the circumstances under which a homicide by a law enforcement officer is considered justifiable, changing the lenient Tennessee v. Garner standard to a more stringent standard that states that a homicide is justified when the homicide is in self-defense, or the defense of another, consistent with the existing legal standard for self-defense.

Title: Abolish Private Prisons

WHEREAS, a principal objective of IAOHRA is to enhance human rights practices under the law; and

WHEREAS, the private prison industry profits off of the incarceration and labor of citizens; and

WHEREAS, private prisons treat incarcerated citizens as cash-cow stock rather than human beings with inherent, inalienable dignity; and

WHEREAS, private prisons exploit prison labor for pennies on the dollar; and

WHEREAS, the private prison industry outsources jobs from the public into their prisons; and

WHEREAS, statistics from the U.S. Department of Justice indicate that, as of 2013, there were 133,000 state and federal prisoners housed in privately-owned prisons in the United States of America; and

WHEREAS, the private prison industry serves to undermine the U.S. Constitution, corrupting the Legislative and Judicial branches such that these branches can no longer serve their roles; and

WHEREAS, private prisons receive up to 40% federally compensated wage tax breaks, shifting the burdens to the citizens while the prison companies profit; and

WHEREAS, data on private prison conditions show an increase in overall prison violence, including violence between inmates and assaults against correctional staff.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA supports the abolition of private prisons.

Resolution #4

Recommended for Adoption Yes

Title: Innocent Inmate Compensation

WHEREAS, the International Association of Official Human Rights Agencies (IAOHRA) is a defender of equality in every aspect of American life, including equal justice for those convicted of criminal offenses; and

WHEREAS, the Innocence Project reported that, over the past 20 years, 362 people previously convicted of serious crimes in the United States were later exonerated by DNA testing. Twenty of those persons had been sentenced to death; and

WHEREAS, approximately 70% of the persons exonerated of serious crimes are members of racial and ethnic minority groups; and

WHEREAS, in light of the extremely high rate of incarceration in the United States, tens of thousands of innocent individuals have likely been convicted of crimes and served time in our nation's federal and state prisons; and

WHEREAS, when released from prison, these innocent victims are often homeless and destitute. In 21 states, the system that caused this injustice does not guarantee any form of compensation to those persons; and

WHEREAS, Article XIV of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which was ratified by the United States, requires compensation to persons wrongfully convicted of crimes under certain circumstances, such as when a conviction is reversed because later acquired evidence demonstrates conclusively that the person did not commit the crime for which he or she was convicted.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA supports the implementation of Article XIV of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights in the United States through the adoption of a federal Innocent Inmate Compensation Act that would compensate innocent inmates who are wrongfully convicted because of failures in the criminal justice system, and through state legislation requiring such compensation in those 21 states that do not currently require the same.

Resolution #5

Recommended for Adoption Yes

Title: Ending Murders of and Violence Against Black Transgender Women and Supporting Transgender Communities

WHEREAS, a principal objective of IAOHRA is to enhance human rights practices under the law; and

WHEREAS, “transgender” is defined by the Human Rights Campaign as “an umbrella term for people whose gender identity and/or expression is different from cultural expectations based on the sex they were assigned at birth”; and

WHEREAS, at least 22 transgender people were been killed in the United States in 2018 — 82 percent of them were women of color; 64 percent were under the age of 35; 55 percent lived in the South; and

WHEREAS, at least at least 28 transgender people were killed in 2017, which was the most on record, again disproportionately targeting transgender women of color and Black women in particular; and

WHEREAS, the murder of transgender people is significantly underreported because data collection is often incomplete or unreliable because some victims' deaths may go unreported, some victims may not be identified as transgender due to the refusal of law enforcement, and journalists and/or family members refuse to acknowledge gender identity; and

WHEREAS, when reporting on the deaths of these individuals, most news stations fail to include details on their lives, their stories, or what people may do to protect themselves if they are black transgender women who feel they are living at risk in their communities; and

WHEREAS, transgender women of color face enormously high rates of homelessness, unemployment, negative health outcomes, rates of depression and suicidal ideation, discrimination in their families, unjust treatment when seeking help from law enforcement, and homicide due to their transgender identity; and

WHEREAS, the Trump Administration continues to push egregious policies that harm transgender communities and wither away equal protection under the law; and

WHEREAS, the United States Supreme Court will decide three cases concerning LGBT rights in the middle of the 2020 presidential campaign, centered around whether the Civil Rights Act of 1964 guarantees protections from workplace discrimination for gay and transgender people; and

WHEREAS, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Article 7 prohibits employers from discriminating against employees on the basis of sex, race, color, national origin and religion; and

WHEREAS, IAOHRA will recognize the deaths of transgender women of color, who suffer violence and homicide at disproportionate rates.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA will work with its Members to support equal protection for the LGBTQI+ community so that they can live free of violence and discrimination.

WHEREAS, the United Nations hailed the move as a "new wind of hope" in Africa; and

WHEREAS, in December 2013, the General Assembly of the United Nations (U.N.) officially adopted a resolution proclaiming the decade beginning in 2015 and through 2024 as the International Decade for People of African Descent; and

Title: Condemnation of Islamophobia

WHEREAS, some of the main goals of IAOHRA are to foster human and intergroup relations and promote civil and human rights around the world. This cannot be achieved when Islamophobia is a persistent issue, both within the U.S. government itself and amongst U.S. citizens; and

WHEREAS, Islamophobia is the fear, hatred of, or prejudice against Muslims or persons of the Islamic religion, especially when seen as a geopolitical force or the source of terrorism; and

WHEREAS, Islamophobia and anti-Muslim sentiments have resulted in the targeting, harassment, vilification, torture, and death of many black and brown people of the Muslim faith; and

WHEREAS, anti-Muslim acts, such as vandalism, desecration of mosques, and acts of violence against persons throughout the United States have increased over the last decade. There have been over 763 reported anti-Muslim incidents that have occurred since 2011; and

WHEREAS, U.S. Representative Ilhan Omar is the first, and only hijab-wearing, Muslim Congresswoman in the history of the United States. Within her first few months serving in the U.S. Congress, Congresswoman Ilhan Omar has been targeted and vilified by the White House, members of Congress, the media and government officials. An anti-Muslim display was erected in the Charleston, West Virginia capitol rotunda, aimed at Congresswoman Omar. Congresswoman Omar was placed on a white supremacist hit list after she was elected; and

WHEREAS, countless Muslim Americans, have been the victims of Islamophobic attacks and death threats. Here are just a few, all happening in the span of a single month in 2015. A pregnant Muslim woman was attacked in California on the evening of November 13, 2015, the same night of the Paris terrorist attacks, where three suicide bombers stood outside a crowded football stadium during a game in Saint-Denis, France. On November 17, 2015, four Muslim passengers were removed from a Spirit airplane at BWI airport after a passenger expressed fear after one of the Muslim passengers looked at his cell phone before take-off. On November 19, 2015 in New York, three boys attacked a 6th grade Muslim girl for wearing a hijab, calling her "ISIS." On November 20, 2015 at Philadelphia airport, two Palestinians were detained and questioned before boarding a Southwest flight for speaking Arabic; and

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA calls upon the White House to refrain from propagation of intolerance, vitriol, divisiveness and Islamophobia, and to launch a White House Leadership Conference to address Islamophobia, cultural diversity, and the importance of encouraging human and intergroup relations.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that IAOHRA appeals to the United States Congress to show leadership by example in condemnation of any and all Islamophobic/anti-Muslim rhetoric within its own establishment, as well as to actively initiate efforts to safeguard the human and civil rights of all people.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED, that IAOHRA encourages its members to support educational awareness opportunities to inform both the public and private sector on human rights and civil rights issues.

Title: Prescription Drug Affordability

WHEREAS, one of the core values of IAOHRA is to provide leadership in the development and enforcement of statutes and ordinances that work towards safeguarding human and civil rights of all people; and

WHEREAS, to protect our lives and our well-being, every family in America requires access to affordable prescription drugs; and

WHEREAS, 90% of brand name drugs increased in price between 2005 and 2016, and the major driver of prescription drug costs is price increases on existing drugs, rather than innovation resulting in new drugs entering the market; and

WHEREAS, African Americans are disproportionately hurt by the high cost of prescription drugs, due to existing inequities in income and health care; and

WHEREAS, African Americans are more susceptible to illnesses that require prescription drugs, yet are also less likely to have the money to pay for the prescription drugs due to income inequalities; and

WHEREAS, though the Affordable Care Act (ACA) reduced the number of uninsured Americans, over 28 million remain without insurance, and more than half of uninsured Americans under 65 are people of color; and

WHEREAS, for people who do not have insurance, paying the retail price of most prescription drugs can be impossible; and

WHEREAS, overall drug prices increased almost 9% in 2016 while general inflation increased just over 2% in the same period; and

WHEREAS, one in four individuals report not being able to afford their prescription drugs, resulting in approximately 45 million Americans in 2016 that did not fill a prescription due to prohibitive costs, and that non adherence results in an estimated $100-$300 billion of avoidable health care costs annually; and

WHEREAS, prescription drugs represent increasing proportions of overall health care spending, accounting for 25% of each dollar spent by commercial health plans; and

WHEREAS, state legislatures have the ability and the duty to enact legislation to create a Prescription Drug Affordability Board to protect residents from the skyrocketing costs of prescription drugs; and

WHEREAS, Maryland has taken a major step forward in bringing down the costs of prescription drugs by creating the nation's first Prescription Drug Affordability Board. The measure will help government reduce expenditures on drugs for their employees, freeing up public funds for other needs, such as education. This Board will act as a watchdog for the public. It will carefully review drug costs and establish fair and affordable costs for state and local government.

WHEREAS, according to the World Health Organization Constitution (1946) and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948), each person is endowed with a right to health, and by restricting access to prescription medications, particularly for minorities, this right is being infringed; and

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA supports the NAACP's call for a creation of a Prescription Drug Affordability Board in each state to determine how best to make prescription drugs more affordable for their residents, including: examining the entire drug supply chain, including the role of drug manufacturers and Pharmacy Benefit Managers (PBMs), and establishing maximum affordability payment rates for expensive drugs that create significant affordability problems for residents, building upon the tradition of health care cost scrutiny.

WHEREAS, the current Administration plans to conduct a largely digital census despite failing to account for the effects of a digital census on the undercounting of communities of color, lack of testing, and questions around cyber security; and

WHEREAS, the Census Bureau has been without a permanent director since June 2017 to oversee the operations of the Bureau and preparations for the 2020 Census; and

WHEREAS, the Census Bureau has been underfunded since at least 2012 and such underfunding has caused the cancellation of necessary pre-testing of the questions, systems, and other aspects of the Census, and

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that IAOHRA calls on the United States Government and each State and Territory of the United States to deploy all resources necessary to ensure an accurate count in the 2020 Census and to eliminate the undercounting of communities of color; and

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED, that IAOHRA will continue to use its resources to inform and prepare our members and our communities regarding the importance of census participation, and to equip them to advocate for appropriate funding and leadership within the Census Bureau for a Complete Count in the 2020 Census.

RESOLUTION TO THE IAOHRA BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF PROPOSING A HUMAN RIGHTS APPROACH TO GUN VIOLENCE

WHEREAS, recent mass shootings in El Paso Texas and Dayton Ohio, leaving 31 dead and 51 injured have once again temporarily raised the issue of gun violence as a national crisis,

WHEREAS, as of August 5, 2019, there have been 255 mass shootings in the United States, as defined by shootings where four or more people are shot, excluding the shooter,

WHEREAS, communities which previously believed themselves to be insulated and immune from the ravages of gun violence understand all too well now that no such place exists in America anymore,

WHEREAS, A failure in national leadership suggests to some that hate is acceptable, if not encouraged, empowering haters to act out their misguided agendas to frighten, oppress, and murder those whom they deem to be underserving of America's promised freedoms,

WHEREAS, gun violence has been a way of life for black and brown communities in impoverished urban areas of America for much too long,

WHEREAS, gun homicides are concentrated in cities. Half of all gun homicides took place in just 127 cities, which represented nearly a quarter of the U.S. population. Within these cities, gun homicides are most prevalent in racially segregated neighborhoods with high rates of poverty,

WHEREAS, Black Americans represent the majority of gun homicide victims, and are 10 times more likely to die by gun homicide than white Americans,

WHEREAS, a multitude of societal problems stemming from the legacy of slavery including discrimination, segregation, racist government policies, discriminatory corporate practices, under-funded schools, inadequate housing, lack of job opportunities, disinvestment, and other barriers to full participation in American society has created conditions ripe for gun violence in our communities,

WHEREAS, local governments, community organizations, and not-for-profit entities are fighting an uphill battle to get guns off our streets, and out of the hands of those who seek to do harm and destruction in our communities,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors of IAOHRA calls on President Trump and Congress to reduce the hateful rhetoric flowing from our nation's capital which only serves to divide us as a nation, and embolden those with agendas of hate to escalate their assault on the people of America, and,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that IAOHRA calls on President Trump and Congress to work together to develop and implement sensible gun control legislation to end the domestic terrorism impacting every region of the country and the very essence of our freedoms as Americans, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, upon passage of this resolution the IAOHRA will disseminate copies of the resolution to the President and Congress.

Title: Condemnation of Conditions at U.S. Immigration Detention Centers

Whereas, the United States is a nation of immigrants, and has historically served as a refuge for those seeking freedom from persecution abroad.

Whereas, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security has detained migrants, including young children, at immigration detention centers at the Southern Border, and around the country, in inhumane, unsanitary, and inhabitable conditions, and separated children from their parents, not all of whom have been reunified.¹

Whereas news reports describe conditions of extreme overcrowding, of 900 detainees being held in a facility designed for 125 people in El Paso, of children as young as eight years-old being forced to take care of infants, of detained toddlers without diapers, babies kept in freezing conditions wearing only diapers and t-shirts, children wearing clothing stained with vomit or breast milk, children and adults sleeping on concrete floors, and of detainees being denied soap and toothpaste.²

Whereas, news reports describe detainees being denied adequate medical care, fed expired food, suffering from malnutrition and dehydration, being unable to lie down to sleep because of overcrowding and temperatures reaching over 80 degrees, being forced to wear soiled clothing for days and weeks because of a lack of showers, and being subject to outbreaks of flu, chickenpox, and scabies.³ Whereas, guards wear face masks because of the strong odor at some detention centers due to the poor conditions.⁴

Whereas, detainees have described a culture of systemic racial, gender, and xenophobic harassment and abuse to U.S. Congressmembers who have visited these centers, including female detainees who describe being called “wh*res” by guards, being woken up at all hours for no reason, and being told by CBP officers to drink out of toilets when they are thirsty.⁵

Whereas, at least seven children have died in U.S. custody in 2019 alone, compared to none in the last 10 years.⁶ Whereas, at least 24 migrants have died in ICE custody between 2016 and 2018.⁷

Whereas, IAOHRA members issued a joint statement in July 2019 condemning the conditions of immigrant detention, specifically the conditions of detention of children, pregnant immigrants, and immigrants with disabilities and other medical needs, and the separation of families, which violate basic human rights precepts that all people be treated with dignity and respect, including the right to be free from discrimination on the basis of national origin and ethnicity.

Whereas, we strongly condemn the conditions at the detention centers and call out for federal immigration authorities to immediately improve the health, sanitation, well-being, and safety of detainees, and to promptly release detainees into the custody of family members or other guardians while they await immigration court proceedings.

Whereas, we call on human rights officials, federal, state, and local agencies to join us in our demand to end these deplorable conditions of detention immediately, which endanger the health, safety, welfare, and human rights of those held in detention, and their families and communities.

Therefore, it is affirmed that IAOHRA members stand firmly against the policy of detaining migrants at inhumane and inhabitable detention centers at the Southern Border and around the United States, and demand the immediate closure of these facilities.

Title: Prohibiting Discrimination against Black Hair Textures and Hairstyles

Whereas, during slavery, white American slave traders described Black hair as “dreadful” and perpetuated negative stereotypes and bias about Black hair textures and hairstyles.

Whereas, to this day, institutionalized racism and vestiges of slavery have created norms around professionalism and neatness which primarily comport with white, European standards of grooming and appearance, and serve to diminish, exclude, and otherize people of other races, ethnicities, or cultures.

Whereas, hair discrimination in employment and in places of public accommodation, such as schools, is rampant and continues to this day, impacting and jeopardizing employment and educational opportunities for Black people.

Whereas, due to discrimination and harmful racial stereotypes, Black hairstyles, including braids, locs, cornrows, twists, Bantu knots, and Afros are often considered by employers and other entities to be unprofessional, messy, unkempt, unhygienic, and/or disruptive.

Whereas, entities that enact policies prohibiting or targeting hair textures or hairstyles closely affiliated with Black people are engaging in a form of race discrimination.

Whereas, federal and state courts have historically failed to recognize and protect the rights of Black people to maintain natural hair or hairstyles closely affiliated with their racial identity in employment and in places of public accommodation, such as in the case EEOC v. Catastrophe Mgmt. Solutions, No. 14-13482 (11th Cir. Dec. 28, 2016), where the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals found that the employer did not engage in race discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act when it refused to hire a Black customer service representative because she styled her hair into locs, a violation of the company’s grooming policy.

Whereas, the New York City Commission on Human Rights, an anti-discrimination agency based in New York City, an IAOHRA member agency, released a seminal legal enforcement guidance in February 2019 clarifying that, under the New York City Human Rights Law, the right to be free from race discrimination includes the right of individuals to maintain natural hair, hairstyles or hair lengths, treated or untreated, that are closely associated with their racial, ethnic, or cultural identities in an effort to address these loopholes at a local level.

Whereas, the States of California and New York subsequently passed legislation in July 2019 outlawing hair discrimination against Black people in employment.

Whereas, we support the rights of Black people, and people of other races and ethnicities, to maintain natural hair, hairstyles, and hair lengths closely associated with their racial, ethnic, or cultural identities in all walks of life, including in employment and at schools, and recognize that prohibitions against these hair textures and hairstyles constitute a form of race discrimination.

Therefore, it is affirmed that IAOHRA members support efforts by agencies, cities, and states to acknowledge and outlaw race discrimination on the basis of hair, and that its members will advocate for other agencies, cities, and states to support similar efforts.
