“New Orleans is full of talent, but how much of that talent gets to socialize with media outlets that could help artists reach more people or book shows? I wanted to invite other artists to perform along with me to network with each other as well as invite music bloggers, recording studio engineers, radio personalities, and the like to see more of what the area and surrounding areas have to offer – from New Orleans, but also Baton Rouge, and Lafayette (my hometown).”
- Arielle Dominique
