10. Collect letters from each of your students who recommend a book. Letters can be sent in a separate large envelope (1 envelope per school) to the same address listed above. Students should introduce themselves, maybe write a bit about their own life, what school is like in America, why they love the book they recommended and some encouraging, kind words. Some of the children receiving books may be on their way to their sponsors some traveling on buses, airplanes or distances that are unfamiliar to them and may invoke anxiety. Letters could talk about what immigrant children might expect on their journeys. A sample is attached. Then, please translate the letters into Spanish. An AP Spanish teacher might welcome this learning opportunity for his/her students and be more than happy to help out with that!

A photograph of a handwritten letter on lined paper. The letter is written in cursive and expresses support for a cause, mentioning a detention center and a book recommendation.

Hi, My name is Jordan Severino and I am 14 years old. I live in New Jersey, and I have a seven year old little brother. I am writing to you today to let you know that I am in support of you and want you to feel like you matter. The fact that children like you are being held in detention centers is horrific and I would like you to know that there are people in my country who are trying to fix this issue. It is not fair that you have to be engaged like the way that you are currently. Nobody deserves that treatment that you are getting. I understand that this is extremely hard, but I hope that my letter and book can bring you some joy. Again, I really hope this ends soon and we have got your back!
