Spectrum Welcomes BOSS Student-Athletes at Dodger Game

Spectrum SportsNet LA (SNLA) recently hosted student-athletes from the Business of Success Beyond Sports (BOSS) organization, an integrated academic leadership program for middle school and high school boys from under-sourced Los Angeles communities, at a Dodgers game for an exclusive experience with the SportsNet LA broadcast team. Attendees were treated to a tour of the SNLA TV booth, led by SNLA analyst Orel Hershiser, before heading to the field to watch the SNLA Dodgers pregame show live and to meet host Kelli Tenant and studio analyst Nomar Garciaparra (as shown in the photo). California Lawmakers Want More Clarity About DNA Evidence

By Rob McCarthy

No one knows how many rape-testing kits are sitting in police department evidence rooms in California when they should be in a DNA lab being analyzed. One California assemblyman is intent on learning the exact number and why evidence in reported sexual assault cases isn't in a database used by investigators statewide.

The measure introduced by Assemblymember David Chiu, D-San Francisco, is aimed at reducing the number of untested sexual assault evidence kits throughout California. The bill for the first time requires law enforcement agencies to report to the California Department of Justice annual data on sexual assault evidence kit collection and testing, providing "greater transparency for survivors, policy makers and the criminal justice system," according to a press release from Chiu's office.

The Assembly has unanimously approved the measure, which is moving toward vote in the State Senate. The bill sailed through two state Senate committees last month, yet is opposed by the California State Sheriff's Association on the grounds that a new DNA evidence reporting requirement places a financial burden on local law enforcement. The push for more clarity and accountability with the DNA evidence comes amidst a national campaign to better manage sexual assault evidence and reduce a backlog of untested kits.

"The neglect of sexual assault kits with no explanation of why they were not analyzed simply adds to the trauma endured by survivors seeking justice," said Alameda County District Attorney Nancy O'Malley, who supports the measure. Participation by police and sheriffs wouldn't pose a burden or be time-consuming, O'Malley believes. The additional reporting in Chiu's bill can be accomplished with "a few extra keystrokes" in the statewide DNA tracking system for sexual predators, she explained.

The bill's author says there is no comprehensive data available in California about the number of sexual assault evidence kits that local law enforcement agencies collect annually or how many kits are analyzed. No comprehensive data exists either about why some sexual assault evidence kits are not analyzed, according to Chiu.

"There is a significant public interest in knowing the percentage of rape kits that are analyzed to identify the perpetrator's DNA profile, as well as the reason for any untested rape kits not being analyzed," the bill's language to all Americans at a reasonable price.

It would appear the GOP thinks of medicine as a capitalistic enterprise and not a quest to alleviate sickness and pain in our nation. When are people going to wake up and realize this nation has fallen behind all the other advanced countries in offering quality medicine to all citizens simply because we let a handful of enormous health insurance companies and pharmaceutical countries run our medical nation's health system.

There is plenty of room for private insurance companies who could offer top notch medical plans to those who can afford it, but something must be in place, so no Americans are left out in the cold and that means a single payer system offering at least some kind of coverage

Need Care Today? Here Are 4 Choices To Try Before The Emergency Room

(BPT) - A health concern rarely strikes when it's convenient for you, and in most cases it occurs at the worst possible time. When you need care and don't have time to schedule an appointment, what do you do?

You head to the emergency room, of course. You wait in the long ER lines and pay the hefty bill that concludes your visit, all for a non-emergency situation that required immediate treatment. It's hardly the most efficient solution, and while your health is certainly your most important concern, there are ways to receive the same quality care without the long wait and extravagant expense of an emergency room visit.

Considering The Three C's

Years ago the emergency room was your only option when you needed immediate care, but today's health care market is home to a number of flourishing alternative options. To find the right solution for your situation, consider the three C's: care, convenience and cost.

- Care: Evaluate the severity of your symptoms and identify what services you need. An emergency issue should always be treated at the ER, but if the problem is not life- or limb-threatening, it can be treated somewhere else.

- Convenience: It's a good idea to know what health care facilities are near you, as well as their hours of operation.

- Cost: Not every provider will be covered by your insurance, so it's important to understand your coverage area as well as your pre-authorization requirements.

If you face a serious health issue, you should head to the emergency room immediately. However, if the issue merits immediate care but is not life- or limb-threatening, the Urgent Care Association of America offers this quick guide to your on-demand health care options.

Urgent care centers are equipped to handle illnesses and injuries that require X-rays, intravenous fluids and/or on-site lab tests. With an emphasis on convenience, urgent care offers short wait times - often 30 minutes or less compared to four hours in the emergency room - and affordable care, made even more so because it is covered by most insurance providers.

Otherwise known as walk-in clinics, retail clinics are commonly found in supermarkets or pharmacies and specialize in treating less serious conditions than urgent care centers or emergency rooms.

A product of the digital age, telemedicine connects patients with providers via virtual visits, resulting in lower costs and decreased travel time. Telemedicine services are an attractive option if you live in a rural community or for times when the treatment you require does not extend beyond a consultation.

Finally, you may consider an on-site clinic. This option is now offered by many employers as a way of providing increased health care access to their employees. Similar to retail clinics, an on-site clinic specializes in offering wellness and preventative services - though the specific services offered by each clinic may vary.

You've read all the care options above and you have a pretty good idea of the best solution for any care need. Match that need with the right treatment option above and you'll receive the same quality care without the long wait and hefty bill of that emergency room visit.

To find an urgent care center near you, visit www.whereisurgentcare.com.

$1,100,000

Yep, that's the value of the "average" house sold in the South Bay. Can you believe that house prices have risen nearly 20% in Hawthorne in the past year? It's all about supply and demand. More people want to live here than there are houses.

More people want the "cool" weather here as opposed to the valley or inland. BUT, you have to have some "loose change" to be a home buyer around here. At 20% down, you would need a cool 200K, then to qualify for a loan your combined income has to be pretty substantial. It's too bad that right now at least, the housing market has locked out most young people and older folks from purchasing even a starter shack. People who can afford to buy are looking at Hawthorne as a bargain when compared with the prices of homes in the beach cities. It's hard for companies to relocate here to our area when their employees would have a tough time finding housing.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM MOVING DATE

The Hawthorne Historical Society will be moving into their new digs soon. There are truck loads of furniture and boxes to be moved into the new Hawthorne Museum which is located at 14100 Prairie Avenue. The building is located just north of the American Legion building on the east side of Prairie. The first of many work days is scheduled for Saturday, July 22. Able bodies are needed to move furniture and lift boxes so that the history of our great city can go on display. Good Neighbors Day and the grand opening of the Museum are planned for Saturday, September 16 at the Jim Thorpe Park site. Call Danny at 310-643-6139 if you would like to get involved or with any questions.

RESOLVE TO RISE

There will be a "Right Touch" workshop on Saturday, July 29th at 10 a.m. at the Funship Learning Preschool sponsored by Resolve to Rise. The workshop is meant for children and their parents to learn how to prevent sexual abuse. Please RSVP by calling 310-465-86522 or go to eventbrite.com and search: the Right Touch.

HEAT

What can I say? It has been miserable, hot and humid. Window AC units are selling fast. Ceiling fans are a help. Most people can hardly wait til the late afternoon breeze picks up to cool us off somewhat. Sleeping is a challenge when the bedroom temps make you sweat more than sleep.

SEPARATION

My daughter and son-in-law found new jobs and have moved up to Roseville, CA. That means we don't get to see our dear grandkids except when they "facetime" us. Separation from our loved ones is hard especially when they have been a big part of our lives for the past six years. Grandma is looking forward to seeing them next month when we visit them and help them move into their new home.

Beanie

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs that are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Highway in Redondo Beach, from noon-3:30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoption fair or check out our website, www.msfr.org. If you have any questions about a particular dog's availability you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! Bet you can't adopt just one!

"Hi there! I'm Beanie, a four-year-old, male Shih Tzu mix. One day I decided that I was old enough to venture out on my own. Big mistake. Huge mistake. While I had a great time romping through the fields, meeting new friends and discovering all kinds of interesting smells, I also got very hungry, dirty and picked up some not-so-nice things called foxtails. Then animal control found me, called me a stray and took me to an LA county shelter. Once at the shelter, my coat was totally shaved down--how humiliating--so they could remove the foxtails. Unfortunately they couldn't get them all... so while I was anesthetized for neutering, they surgically removed more foxtails. Well, I have to tell you I was truly a pitiful sight--emaciated, bald, holes from foxtails, sutures and a prominent under-bite. I looked like a cross between Dracula and Frankenstein. The MSFR people, who were rescuing some Schnauzers, were so moved by my appearance that they rescued me as well. A quick trip to their veterinarian revealed that there were eight more foxtails to be removed. Half of them were easily removed, but the remaining four required another surgery so then they also did a dental on me. Infections, drainage tubes and antibiotics have taken care of the foxtail problem, so now I have to put on a few pounds because at 7.5 pounds I'm about three pounds less than my appropriate weight. Once my hair grows in, I'm going to be a real looker--and with my sweet and gentle temperament, I just know you'll love me. I am a bit skittish at first, but in no time at all I will just melt into your arms. I'm also very smart and I've learned that if you want to venture out on your own, you should wait until you're six."

Truffles

If you're interested in Beanie, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"Let me please take a minute to introduce you to Truffles! Not the candy but me—a four-year-old, female Maltese/Terrier mix who is just as sweet and looking for her forever home. I was rescued from an LA county shelter after being hit by a car while out for my evening stroll. Luckily for this stray, nothing was broken and there were no apparent injuries, which was a huge relief for me. I'm a petite, 10-pound lady, with a silky white coat and big dark eyes who gets along well with other dogs and loves people. Since I'm the whole package, it wasn't long before I had someone that was supposed to adopt me but never showed up. I also had multiple 'back-up adopters' that didn't show up either and I was beginning to get a complex. Ta-da! The MSFR folks arrived on the scene, took one look at me and couldn't resist my face or my story. A quick trip to their veterinarian for a dental and an exam revealed that I had two mammary tumors. They were removed and, I'm happy to report, they were benign. Now all I need is to find that forever home that loves sweet little gals and will let me love them in return."

If you're interested in Truffles, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"They call me Nebraska but I think I look more like a Miss Mississippi. Not bad for a nine-month old, female 'mystery Terrier' mix. One day, someone left the door open and I was out and about in a heartbeat. The only problem is I had no idea where I lived or how to get back home. And that, folks, is how I ended up at an LA county shelter where everyone called me a stray (but that's not my name). Originally I had one person who was eager to adopt me and a list of four more, if that didn't work out. You can imagine my surprise when absolutely no one showed up to take me home. I still can't figure out how anyone would pass on me without ever meeting me. I was so happy to see the MSFR folks and even happier when they decided to rescue me. We're still trying to figure out my pedigree, but definitely a Terrier mix--maybe a little Yorkie and the 'mystery Terrier,' but I'm not sure. I do know that I have a very soft coat with some really outstanding markings and that I will probably be a low shedder. I'm still pretty puppyish with a face of an innocent one minute and an imp the next. I get along great with other dogs and like to play, but I'm also 12 pounds of love, affection and loyalty."

If you're interested in Nebraska, please email info@msfr.org for more information. •

Enjoy your new family Emmy Lou!

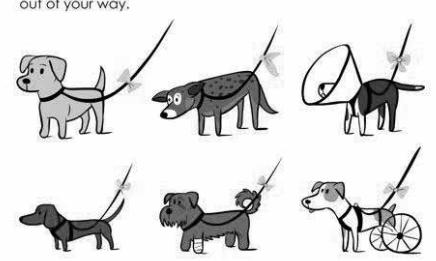

Congratulations to little Emmy Lou and her new mom. Emmy Lou is the senior female rescue that came to us weighing a mere 11 pounds and looking pretty scrawny. She has gained 3.5 pounds and currently looks great. Emmy Lou had a dental and a full senior screen that revealed no medical problems. In fact, the only issue was a little incontinence problem, which may require diapers down the road. She now lives in Huntington Beach with her retired mom who has no problem with diapers and dogs if it should come to that. In fact Emmy Lou's mom has had many Schnauzers in the past, including an eight-year-old that she adopted who lived another 10 happy years before going to Rainbow Bridge. When she met Emmy Lou, she was absolutely thrilled with how sweet and adorable she is and there was never a question of her

5 Tips To Find The Financial Advisor To Match Your Retirement Goals

(BPT) - The idea of retirement may start out as a distant dream. You have hopes and plans for that special time that seems so far away. Sooner or later that time will be here and hopefully you'll be ready.

However, recent research shows many people are not prepared to enjoy a financially stable retirement. A study by the Employee Benefit Research Institute states:

- Only 18 percent of people are very confident they will have the savings they need for a comfortable retirement;
- One-third of people aren't confident they will be able to cover basic living expenses in retirement;
- 45 percent of Americans aren't confident they will be able to cover their medical expenses once they're retired;
- 3 in 10 workers report that preparing for retirement causes them to feel mentally or emotionally stressed.

"Many people recognize the value of saving for a comfortable retirement. They just don't know how to manage their money effectively to maximize their savings and realize their dreams," says Geoffrey Brown, CEO of the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors.

Financial planners provide support and advice on a wide array of financial topics, including budgeting, estate planning, investments, education funding, insurance and risk management, healthcare planning, and, of course, retirement planning and senior issues. Financial planners who are members of NAPFA are all fee-only and compensated solely through fees from their clients, rather than by transaction-based commissions. Most commissions-based advisors are salespeople rather than comprehensive financial planners.

All NAPFA members also sign a fiduciary oath, meaning they must disclose any conflict, or potential conflict, to their clients prior to and throughout the advisory engagement.

To find the right financial planner for you and your needs, follow these tips from NAPFA:

- Finalize your own initial strategy. Before looking for a financial planner, think about the goals you want to attain.
- Select several advisors. Don't narrow your focus when looking for the right financial planner. Instead, consult websites like NAPFA.org. Use the NAPFA Find an Advisor search platform to locate a financial planner who can help you get where you're going. Word of mouth is fine for some pursuits, but your financial goals are specific to your life, and probably differ greatly from those of your friends.
- Do your homework. When it comes to vetting a financial planner, a little research goes a long way. You can also search the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission site or BrokerCheck by FINRA to learn more about the planner's disciplinary history. It's important to review an advisor's disciplinary records, their practice focus and their credentials - such as whether or not they are a Certified Financial Planner(TM) (CFP(R)) professional.
- Meet them face-to-face. If you like everything you've found so far, then it's time to meet your potential financial planner. Your financial planner will have a large role in your future success so it's important that you feel comfortable with the relationship.
- Review your results initially and annually. Once you've finished your interviews, take the time to review all the information you've gathered and pick the financial planner that best fits your needs. After that, plan to review the performance of your finances every year.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

PETITION FOR PERMIT PARKING IN RESIDENTIAL NEIGHBORHOOD
A petition has been submitted to the Inglewood Public Works Department requesting the establishment of a residential Permit Parking District on: Regent Street between West of Oak Street and the street terminus to the west. Per Sections 3-75 to 3-79 of the Inglewood Municipal Code, this matter will be considered by the Inglewood City Council at the time and place specified:

July 25, 2017 at 2:00 p.m.
City Council Chambers,
9th floor of City Hall

One Manchester Boulevard,
Inglewood CA 90301

This notice is being mailed to all addresses fronting the subject street. Any interested person may attend this meeting and speak on this matter.

Purpose of Public Hearing

The purpose of this public hearing is to give all residents of the specific areas listed above an opportunity to state their opinion of the subject matter.

The purpose of a Permit Parking District is to assure the availability of some on-street (curbside) parking spaces within a neighborhood where the patrons and a neighborhood where the patrons and/or employees of a nearby commercial or industrial facility are otherwise using all available on-street parking spaces. A district will not be established if parking demand is due to competition for curbside spaces between residential neighbors. Section 3-76 of the Inglewood Municipal Code states: "A Permit Parking District shall not be established for the purpose of creating an exclusive parking zone on public streets for the pleasure of local residents when there is no outstanding evidence of a severe and large-scale shortage of on-street parking and/or related traffic congestion caused by a neighboring facility that generates such parking demand or traffic congestion on local streets."

The Inglewood City Council will therefore be considering if the availability of on-street parking on Ivy Avenue between Beach Avenue and La Brea Avenue, Market Street between Hazel Street and Beach Avenue and Edgewood Street between Beach Avenue and Warren Lane are severely impacted in this manner and if a Permit Parking District would be warranted. If it is determined to be warranted, ballots will be mailed to each household within the proposed parking district. A 75-percent approval is required to establish a Permit Parking District.

If a Permit Parking District is established, all residents and visitors in this neighborhood will be restricted from parking on the public streets at any time, unless a proper parking permit will be cited by the Inglewood Police Department. A Permit Parking District will not reserve any parking space for any resident or visitor. If you have any questions regarding this matter, or wish to express an opinion but are unable to attend the public hearing, please contact the Inglewood Public Works Department at (310) 412-5333.

AVISO DE AUDIENCIA PÚBLICA
PETICIÓN DE PERMISO DE ESTACIONAMIENTO EN BARRIO RESIDENCIAL

Se ha presentado una petición al Departamento de Obras Públicas de Inglewood, solicitando el establecimiento de permiso para permitir el estacionamiento en una zona residencial en la calle Regent entre la calle Oak y donde termina hacia el oeste de la calle Oak. Por las secciones 3-75 a 3-79 del Código Municipal de Inglewood, este asunto será considerado por el Ayuntamiento de la Ciudad de Inglewood y en la fecha y lugar especificado:

25 de Julio de 2017
a las 2:00p.m.

Cámara del Ayuntamiento,
9º piso del Ayuntamiento
One Manchester Boulevard,
Inglewood CA 90301

Este aviso está siendo enviado a todos los domicilios al frente de las calles de tema. Cualquier persona interesada puede asistir a esta reunión y hablar sobre este asunto.

Propósito de la Audiencia Pública

El propósito de esta audiencia pública es para darle a todos los residentes de las áreas específicas mencionadas anteriormente la oportunidad de declarar su opinión sobre el tema. El propósito del establecimiento de permiso para permitir el estacionamiento en una zona residencial es para asegurar la disposición de algunos espacios de estacionamiento en la calle en un barrio donde los patrones o empleados de establecimientos comerciales o industriales cercanos no estén utilizando todos los espacios de estacionamiento disponibles en la calle. Un distrito no se establecerá si la demanda de estacionamiento es debido a la competencia para aceras espacios entre vecinos residenciales. La Sección 3-76 del Código Municipal de Inglewood dice: "No se establecerá permiso para permitir el estacionamiento en una zona residencial con el fin de crear una zona de estacionamiento exclusivo en la vía pública para el disfrute de los residentes locales cuando hay evidencia excepcional de una escasez severa y a gran escala de estacionamiento en la calle o congestión de tráfico relacionados causados por una instalación vecina que genera tal congestión de demanda o tráfico de estacionamiento en las calles locales."

El Ayuntamiento de la Ciudad de Inglewood por lo tanto considerará si la disposición de estacionamiento en la calle Regent entre la calle Oak y donde termina hacia el oeste de la calle Oak es gravemente afectada de esta manera y si se justificaría un permiso para permitir el estacionamiento en una zona residencial.

Si se establece el permiso para permitir el estacionamiento en una zona residencial los residentes y visitantes en este barrio verán restricciones de estacionamiento en la vía pública en todo momento, a menos que un permiso de estacionamiento se muestra dentro de cada vehículo estacionado. Vehículos que no muestren un permiso apropiado para permitir estacionamiento serán citados por el Departamento de Policía de Inglewood. Un permiso de distrito de estacionamiento no reservará ningún espacio de estacionamiento para cualquier residente o visitante.

Si usted tiene alguna pregunta sobre este asunto, o desea expresar una opinión pero no pueden asistir a la audiencia pública, póngase en contacto con el Departamento de Obras Públicas de Inglewood al (310) 412-5333.

explains. "Currently, there is no mandatory statewide tracking mechanism to collect and report these metrics. It is the intent of the Legislature in enacting this section ... to correct that."

The cost to test DNA evidence in a rape case can reach $5,000, and a 2014 report by the California State Auditor revealed that each year kits go unanalyzed by DNA laboratories for a variety of reasons. Chiu says the scope of the problem, however, cannot be properly estimated due to "a lack of effective tracking at the local level."

Women and men who report sexual assaults often know their attackers, according to statistics cited in a paper by Dean Kilpatrick with the National Violence Against Women Prevention Research Center. In nearly 80 percent of the cases reported to police, the victim and the accused perpetrator had an intimate relationship. Kilpatrick defined that connection as a current or former spouse, live-in partner, dating partner, boyfriend or girlfriend. About one in four sexual assaults are committed by strangers, a National Women's Study found. Even when the accused attacker's identity is known, there is good reason to enter their DNA in the state's sexual assault tracking system, according to Chiu.

Forensic analysis often helps identify repeat offenders. That can only occur if city police and county sheriff departments input sexual assault evidence into the Sexual Assault Forensic Evidence Tracking system, or SAFE-T. Lawmakers created the database in 2015 without requiring police, sheriffs and other law enforcement agencies to log in every rape kit they collect. Chiu's measure would make it mandatory, along with an explanation why investigators chose not to send off a kit to a public or private DNA-testing lab for analysis.

The state collects and stores DNA data of people who are arrested on suspicion of committing crimes, under a voter-approved initiative from 2004. Prop. 69 expanded the collection and use of criminal offender DNA samples and palm print impressions. The state Department of Justice reported in May that 917 "hits" were made by investigators who were looking at suspects. A "hit" connects a suspect with prior offenses or crimes.

Chiu's bill would require law enforcement agencies to inform the California Department of Justice within 120 days of taking the DNA samples. There is an additional reporting duty on the DNA labs to explain why they haven't tested a sample within 120 days of receiving it, and if the evidence goes unprocessed beyond that time. If approved by the Senate and signed into law, Chiu's bill would not cover untested evidence taken before January 1, 2018.

A spokeswoman with the state Department of Justice said that the DNA crime labs have reduced any backlogs using grant money from the New York District Attorney's Office. The Department of Justice and its Bureau of Forensic Services examines approximately 2,000 sexual assault kits per year. DNA is being tested in less than 30 days, and the state is further improving testing with a program called Rapid DNA Service, or RAD.

The state's top law enforcement agency says that 46 California counties use the expedited testing service. Los Angeles County is not one of them, and along with large areas of Orange County and San Diego use other public DNA labs as part of their sexual assault investigations.

The costs to expand testing and reporting aren't specified, however, Chiu's bill says the state by law must reimburse local cities and counties for complying with the order. The current effort to identify and track sexual predators is being funded with a $1.6 million grant from the Manhattan District Attorney's Initiative to eliminate backlogs of untested rape kits. Former Attorney General Kamala Harris, now a U.S. senator, announced the award in September 2015 to give law enforcement an assist in identifying and stopping serial offenders.

"DNA testing results use a 'smart on crime tool' that we've used in cutting edge ways in California," Harris said. "Evidence of sexual assault is too important to sit dormant for months while victims await justice. This grant will allow us to use our Rapid DNA Service Team's technology to assist more of our law enforcement partners across California in eliminating their sexual assault kit backlogs."

California has touted its progress with rapid testing of DNA evidence at state labs, first announcing in 2012 that its RADS team had eliminated the backlog of untested kits at the state-run labs. Last week, a Department of Justice spokeswoman confirmed that 46 counties that participate in RADS also were caught up on their DNA rape case testing. RADS has caught the attention of the U.S. Justice Department, which presented then-Attorney General Kamala Harris and her staff with an award for innovation in victims' services. •

Don't Blink, or Else You Could Miss History in the Making

By Adam Serrao

The Los Angeles Dodgers went into this year's All-Star break as the hottest team in all of Major League Baseball. The key to the team's success isn't Clayton Kershaw. It isn't Corey Seager or Justin Turner either. The key to the Dodgers being the hottest team in all of baseball is a next-man-up mentality. If one player on the roster isn't getting the job done, then another assumed unlikely hero seems to step up out of nowhere and lift the team to a victory. The Dodgers are on pace to win well over 100 games this season. That fact alone begs the question: could this be the best Los Angeles Dodgers team Major League Baseball has ever seen?

If you ever find yourself smack dab in the middle of watching a Dodgers game this season and L.A. happens to be trailing in the game, don't change the channel. The Dodgers have the opposition precisely where they want them. This Los Angeles team is one that always believes that it has a chance and never thinks it is out of any game, no matter how big the deficit. That fact couldn't have been any more evident than it was last Thursday when the Boys in Blue were down 4-1 in the bottom of the ninth inning at Chavez Ravine, but rallied to score four runs and win in walk-off fashion. "That was incredible," Rich Hill, who started the game for the Dodgers, related. "I saw some people leaving the ballpark. You've gotta stay with this team."

The walk-off victory was the Dodgers' fifth of the sort at just over halfway through the regular season. It was the 22nd come-from-behind victory for a team that truly refuses to quit no matter what day of the week or what point in the season it happens to be. Sure, the Dodgers have won the past four NL West titles, but this season has a much different feel to it. At the All-Star break last year, for instance, Los Angeles was 51-40 and stood in second place in the NL West standings, 6.5 games behind the San Francisco Giants. Not only are the hated Giants the second worst team in all of baseball this season, but the Dodgers are now 32 games over .500 and are the best team in all of baseball at this year's break.

If the comeback victory against the Diamondbacks one week ago wasn't enough, then the Dodgers did it again last Saturday night to remind you why they eventually got six players onto the All-Star team. Trailing 4-3 in the bottom of the eighth inning, one of those All-Stars, Cody Bellinger, belted a home run to tie the game and later drew a bases-loaded walk to win it. Bellinger had been slumping and was previously on an 11-game homerless streak before he saved the day for the Blue Crew. Despite that slump, he did what every Dodger does when the game is on the line. Not only did the home run leave Bellinger in second place in the National League in home runs (behind only Joey Votto), but he also became the second player in Major League history to hit 25 home runs in 69 or fewer games played. Jose Abreu accomplished the feat in 67 games.

Last Saturday's win at home against the Royals put the Dodgers ahead of the Houston Astros for best record in all of baseball for the first time this season. Since June 1, Los Angeles has won 28 of 36 games to boast a record that's far and away the best in the Majors. The team's pitching staff is first in ERA and WHIP and ranks second in strikeouts per nine innings over that span. Their overall team defense is the best in both the National League and American League rankings.

The Dodgers have now won 26 of their last 30 games (as well as 18 of their last 19 at home) and 39 straight games in which they have taken a lead. They were the first team to 60 wins this season, reaching the mark before the All-Star break for the first time since 1974. With their win and sweep over the Royals last Sunday, the Dodgers officially put themselves on pace to win 109 games this year. That mark would beat the previous franchise win total held by both the 1962 and 1974 Dodgers (102 wins). It would also become the most games won by a team in the National League since the 1909 Pittsburgh Pirates (110-42).

"Every night, it's somebody different, and that's the sign of a good team," Dodgers manager Dave Roberts explained. "It seems like I say depth every single night, but that's probably been the biggest reason for our success." The depth that Roberts speaks of has not only given the Dodgers the best record in the best division in baseball, but--together with high-end production from every position on the team—it has given the Dodgers the best record in all of baseball. Whether the team is blasting home runs over the wall, winning with walk-off walks, or scaring opposing pitchers into throwing wild pitches to score five runs, the Dodgers are getting the job done. Now Kershaw, Bellinger, Seager, Turner, Alex Wood and Kenley Jansen will represent the best team in baseball at the All-Star Game.

The only thing that could be better for the Dodgers is if their All-Stars, plus every other player on the roster, represented the team at this year's World Series. The way things are going right now, it certainly looks as if the Dodgers have a leg up on the rest of the competition. In a long baseball season, anything can happen. Bats can cool down, injuries can take place, or players can simply just lose their stuff. With the depth that the Dodgers have on the roster, though, it's looking increasingly more like this is the team's best chance at getting back to the World Series for the first time since 1988. – Asixlion@earthlink.net
