Contents

Preface: How we came to write this book ix

Introduction 1
   Invitation to participate 1
   What is group dynamics and why is it important for language teachers? 3
   Why is 'group dynamics' such an unknown concept in L2 studies and where can we find more information? 5
   What will you learn in this book and how will it help your teaching? 8
   The importance of spending time on group dynamics 9

1 Becoming a group 12
   1.1 What is a 'group'? 12
   1.2 Initial emotions in class 14
   1.3 Intermember relationships 17
   1.4 How to promote acceptance 19
   1.5 On the importance of knowing each other's names in class 26
   1.6 Icebreakers 29
   1.7 Moving students round 31
   1.8 Summary 32

2 Managing the class: Rules, norms and discipline 34
   2.1 What are 'group norms'? 35
   2.2 Group norms need to be discussed and willingly accepted 36
   2.3 If one breaks the norms . . . 39
   2.4 How to maintain group norms in the long run 41
   2.5 Learning contracts 43
   2.6 How to deal with institutional and competing norms and rules 45
   2.7 Summary 47
Contents

3 How groups develop
3.1 Ehrman and Dörnyei’s system of group development in learner groups
3.2 When group development goes astray
3.3 Summary

4 The cohesive group: Relationships and achievement
4.1 The mature group
4.2 What is cohesiveness?
4.3 Group cohesiveness and group productivity/effectiveness
4.4 Promoting cohesiveness
4.5 Is there a possible downside to cohesiveness?
4.6 Summary

5 The classroom environment’s contribution to group dynamics
5.1 The classroom environment
5.2 Spatial organisation
5.3 The arrangement of the furniture
5.4 Temperature, light and decoration
5.5 The ownership of the classroom
5.6 Movement in the classroom
5.7 Songs and music in the environment
5.8 The ideal classroom?
5.9 Summary

6 The teacher as group leader
6.1 Lewin and his colleagues’ three leadership styles
6.2 Rogers’ three attributes of the effective facilitator
6.3 Heron’s system of facilitation
6.4 Hersey and Blanchard’s situational-leadership theory
6.5 A synthesis of the different approaches
6.6 ‘Transactional’ versus ‘transformational’ leadership
6.7 Promoting learner autonomy
6.8 Summary

7 Student roles and role modelling
7.1 Informal roles
7.2 Inviting and assigning student roles
7.3 Role problems
7.4 Preparing students for performing their roles effectively
7.5 Self-fulfilling prophecies - or how we live up to the role that is expected of us

vi
Contents

- 7.6 'Near peer role modelling' 128
- 7.7 Summary 132

8 Trouble-shooting: Conflicts and apathy happen! 134
  - 8.1 What causes conflict? 135
  - 8.2 Potential benefits of conflict 141
  - 8.3 Weathering the storm: Conflict resolution 142
  - 8.4 Rebellion against the leader 153
  - 8.5 When apathy sets in 154
  - 8.6 Summary 157

9 The last classes: Affirming and closing 159
  - 9.1 The significance of an appropriate closure of the group 160
  - 9.2 Affirming and motivating 161
  - 9.3 Emotional closure 164
  - 9.4 Projecting into the future 166
  - 9.5 The teacher-leader’s needs 166
  - 9.6 Summary 168

10 Conclusion: Wrapping it up 170
  - 10.1 Brief summary 170
  - 10.2 The need to consider the whole school environment 174
  - 10.3 Parting words 176

References 177

Index 184