Joe Fresh x Lemlem

Everyone knows the struggle of finding summer fashion that can truly withstand the heat. This season, Joe Fresh and Lemlem have teamed up to create a 14-piece limited-edition capsule collection that will have you running to the beach the moment the temperature spikes. The collaboration blends Lemlem's signature bright stripes with the accessibility for which Joe Fresh is known to create a trendy and tropical vibe. Each piece pays tribute to summer staples, such as beaded bikini ties, an airy cover-up fit for the Hamptons, and lightweight shorts tied with nautical rope. If the price range doesn't tempt you enough—every piece is under $40—you can know that the proceeds from this capsule collection will support the Liya Kebede Foundation, named after Lemlem's CEO. The organization is dedicated to helping women in Africa thrive by supporting job creation and local fashion artisans. The cause hits close to home—Ethiopia is both Kebede's home country and where the line is produced. Finding the perfect summer essentials while supporting ethical fashion? We're so down. Gül Hürigel

If playful, summery dresses are a must-have for your closet, Gül Hürigel is here to hook you up. The Istanbul-based designer knows how to work fabrics to create a chic, girly vibe. For her spring collection, Hürigel drew inspiration from the Mediterranean lifestyle, using linen and detailed embroidery to reflect the setting. Get to know her below—from her favorite spots in Istanbul to her drink of choice. AT gulhurgel.com

TOMS x & Other Stories

In 2006 we were introduced to TOMS, the charitable shoe company that gives a pair of shoes to a child in need for every pair that it sells. Now we can enjoy dressing in full looks that give back as the philanthropic footwear brand has teamed up with & Other Stories. In a collaboration strongly influenced by Venice Beach, & Other Stories, which has creative ateliers in both Paris and Stockholm, and TOMS, which is based in California, have brought their design aesthetics together to create a very natural collection with easy pieces that can be mixed and matched. The classic TOMS style is updated with patterns from & Other Stories, and the shoe options extend beyond the slip-ons you know and love, including sandals and moccasin-like lace-up booties. The best part? TOMS' buy-a-pair, give-a-pair promise still applies. Meanwhile, with the purchase of each ready-to-wear item, & Other Stories will support one month of English classes through Magic Bus Women's Scholar Fund. This partnership is one that we can totally get behind. AT toms x & other stories, $25-$145, available at stories.com
