

In the Studio

★ Main Feature

In our main feature we chat with Mark Allen, CEO of EdintheClouds and 123Go!, one of the most innovative and revolutionary thinkers in technology today.

Mark talks about how he got involved with tech and why schools need to wake up to the future, something he will present at The EduTech Summit in June.

Mark will be delivering a keynote session and will be available to discuss leadership strategy and digital platforms with schools and school leaders.

🔧 Tech Tool

Our tech tool in this episode is Google Hangouts, the video, SMS and voice messaging

Listen to the episode to find out how Hangouts can be used to stimulate learning and find some subject- and age-specific content in a safe way. We also discuss the common myths about YouTube and how schools can help to protect their students online too.

If you have your own experiences of using this tool and would like to share this with us, it could be featured on the next episode. Get in contact here.

👥 Online PLN

We continued to discuss the importance of building your own online PLN (Personal Learning Network). On this episode we recommend following these Twitter users:

@mradampe
@mrcaffrey

