COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

COMES NOW the Plaintiff, JOHN FORD (“Plaintiff”), by and through his undersigned counsel, and complains of the Defendants as follows:

I. PARTIES

1. Plaintiff John Ford is a natural person and a citizen of the United States and of the State of Louisiana and resides in New Orleans.

2. Defendant City of New Orleans is a municipality and a political subdivision of Louisiana located in the Parish of Orleans, State of Louisiana.

Defendant is organized under the laws of the State of Louisiana, and operates under a Home Rule Charter.

3. Defendant Michael S. Harrison is sued in his official capacity as Superintendent of Police, New Orleans Police Department (“NOPD”). Defendant Harrison is responsible for enforcing the City of New Orleans’ customs, practices and laws related to the City of New Orleans’ ban on stun guns. Defendant Harrison may be served with process at the Office of the Superintendent, 715 South Broad Street, New Orleans, LA 70119.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

4. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343, 2201, 2202 and 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and § 1988.

5. Venue lies in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391.

III. STATEMENT OF FACTS

a. The Second Amendment

6. The Second Amendment to the United States Constitution provides: “A well regulated Militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms shall not be infringed.”

7. The Second Amendment guarantees individuals a fundamental right to keep and carry arms for self-defense and defense of others in the event of a violent confrontation. District of Columbia v. Heller, 554 U.S. 570 (2008); McDonald v. Chicago, 561 U.S. 742 (2010); Caetano v. Massachusetts, 577 U.S. ___ (2016),

8. Arms are “‘weapons of offence, or armour of defence.’ 1 Dictionary of the English Language 107 (4th ed.)” They are anything that a man [or woman] wears for his defense, or takes into his hands, or uses in wrath to cast at or strike another.’ 1 A New and Complete Law Dictionary (1771).” District of Columbia v. Heller, 554 U.S. at 581.

9. The Second Amendment extends, prima facie, to all instruments that constitute bearable arms, even those that were not in existence at the time of the founding. Heller, 554 U.S. at 582; Caetano, slip op. at 1 (per curiam).

10. Under the Second Amendment, the City of New Orleans retains the ability presumptively to regulate the manner of carrying arms and may prohibit certain arms in narrowly defined sensitive places, prohibit the carrying of arms that are not within the scope of Second Amendment’s protection such as unusually dangerous arms, and disqualify specific, particularly dangerous individuals from carrying arms. See Heller, 554 U.S. at 627.

11. Given the decision in Heller, City of New Orleans may not completely ban the keeping and bearing of arms for self-defense that are not unusually dangerous, deny individuals the right to carry arms in non-sensitive places, deprive individuals of the right to keep or carry arms in an arbitrary and capricious manner, or impose regulations on the right to keep and carry arms that are inconsistent with the Second Amendment. See Caetano v. Massachusetts, 577 U.S. ____ (2016); Heller v. District of Columbia, 801 F.3d 264 (D.C. Cir. 2015); Palmer v. District of Columbia, 59 F.Supp.3d 173 (2014).

12. In a recent Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals case, the Fifth Circuit cited approvingly to Caetano for the proposition that stun guns are protected arms under the Second Amendment:

In addressing whether stun guns are in common use, Justice Alito, joined by Justice Thomas, implied that the number of states that allow or bar a particular weapon is important:

[T]he number of Tasers and stun guns is dwarfed by the number of firearms. This observation may be true, but it is beside the point.... The more relevant statistic is that [200,000] ... stun guns have been sold to private citizens, who it appears may lawfully possess them in 45 States.... While less popular than handguns, stun guns are widely owned and accepted as a legitimate means of self-defense across the country.

Caetano, 136 S.Ct. at 1032–33 (citations and quotation marks omitted). These two justices suggested that the 200,000 absolute number, plus that 45 states have “accepted [stun guns] as a legitimate means of self-defense,” was enough to determine that the stun gun is in common use.

Hollis v. Lynch, 827 F.3d 436, 449 (5th Cir. 2016).

15. Additionally, the Louisiana Constitution provides that “[t]he right of each citizen to keep and bear arms is fundamental and shall not be infringed. Any restriction on this right shall be subject to strict scrutiny.” La. Const. art. 1, § 11.

b. Tasers

16. Tasers are arms in common use for self-defense by civilians as well as by law enforcement.

16. Tasers are manufactured and sold by Taser International, Inc.

17. A Taser is an electronic control device (“ECD”) that uses replaceable cartridges containing inert, compressed nitrogen to fire two small probes that are attached to insulated conductive wires. In the models generally marketed to non-law enforcement persons, the conductive wires are 15 feet (4.5 meter) in length.

18. Taser models generally marketed to law enforcement agencies use conductive wires with lengths up to 25 feet in length.

19. The probes are designed to penetrate the clothing of an attacker and imbed in the attacker's skin. Electrical energy is sent over the wires into the probes. The charge is transmitted between the two probes and is designed to disrupt the sensory and motor functions to inhibit muscular control of an attacker.

20. With a Taser exposure, the attacker is momentarily incapacitated to allow the person attacked to escape and call for law enforcement assistance, or in the case of a law enforcement officer, to allow for the apprehension of the suspect without further risk of injury to the officer or the suspect.

21. The Taser's electronic charge lasts from five to thirty seconds depending on whether the civilian or the law enforcement model is employed.

22. The most commonly employed civilian Taser is a one shot device with a 30 second charge. Once fired the device can still be used as a direct contact stun device in the event of a missed shot or in the event of multiple assailants.

23. Taser International also manufactures Taser devices having the capacity for multiple shots. These multiple shot devices are commonly used by law enforcement personnel in the performance of their duties.

24. Tasers have several advantages over other non-lethal means of self-defense, such as self-defense sprays or contact weapons.

25. First, self-defense sprays must be administered generally within several feet of an assailant while a civilian model Taser can be deployed within 15 feet. The closer distance the assailant must be to a potential victim for the victim to employ a self-defense spray increases the danger to the potential victim. For example, it is generally recognized by law enforcement that an assailant wielding a contact weapon such as a knife or a club can be a lethal threat at distances of 21 feet or closer. See Dennis Tueller, How Close is Too Close, Police Policies Study Council, available at http://www.theppsc.org/Staff_Views/Tueller/How.Close.htm (originally published in the March 1983 Edition of SWAT Magazine).

26. Second, pepper sprays can often be ineffectual against highly intoxicated or highly agitated assailants. See generally Steven M. Edwards, et al., Evaluation of Pepper Spray, National Institute of Justice, U.S. Dept. of Justice, Office of Justice Programs, Research in Brief (February 1997), available at <https://www.ncjrs.gov/textfiles/162358.txt>. Tasers, on the other hand, when effectively employed will likely stop an attack from an intoxicated or mentally disturbed attacker.

27. Third, for optimum effect, defense sprays should be deployed at the face of the attacker, which is a small target. The Taser is most effective when deployed at other larger parts of the body of the attacker.

28. Fourth, defense sprays can end up being blown back at the victim if used in a windy environment, resulting in incapacitating the victim rather than the attacker. This is not an issue with a Taser device.

29. Likewise, Tasers have advantages over the variety of contact weapons as well such as police type batons or knives. Allowing an attacker to close to contact distance creates a high degree of danger to a potential victim.

30. Contact weapons can also be more difficult for persons of lesser strength to deploy, compared to a Taser.

31. Moreover, use of any contact weapon, such as a knife or club, carries a high degree of risk of death or serious bodily harm to the assailant, whereas risk of death or serious bodily harm from a Taser is minimal.

32. On a related note, given that use of a knife or club qualifies as the use of deadly force, an individual using a knife or club to defend against a criminal attack, has a high legal standard to meet to sustain a claim self-defense.¹

33. Tasers have been widely used by law enforcement agencies throughout the United States and the world. More than 18,000 law enforcement agencies use the devices.

34. Studies have shown Tasers to reduce injuries to both law enforcement officers and to suspects. The United States Department of Justice found that Tasers result in fewer injuries to suspects and officers than all other means of subduing suspects.

35. In the event of deployment of a civilian Taser the device releases some 24 small confetti like tags called AFIDs which are packed into the firing mechanism. When the Taser cartridge is engaged, the AFIDs fly out of the Taser and scatter around the area where the device was utilized.

36. The term AFID stands for Anti Felon Identification. Taser utilizes AFIDs to deter criminal misuse of its product. Taser can trace the purchaser of the device from data contained on an AFID.

37. Tasers and other electronic weapons are in common use for self-defense. The Michigan Court of Appeals found that “Hundreds of thousands of Tasers and stun guns have been sold to private citizens,” People v. Yanna, 297 Mich. App. 137, 144, 824 N.W. 2d 241, 245 (2012). Concurring in the per curiam reversal of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court’s upholding of a ban on stun guns, Justice Alito stated, “While less popular than handguns, stun guns are widely owned and accepted as a legitimate means of self-defense across the country.” Caetano v. Massachusetts, 577 U.S. ___, ___ (March 21, 2016) (Alito, J., concurring).

c. City of New Orleans Law.

38. New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-1 defines a stun gun or a Taser as a destructive device. “The term ‘destructive device’ shall include ... c. Any device designed or redesigned, made or remade, or readily converted or restored, and intended to stun or disable a person by means of electric shock.” Id. This same statute includes stun gun in the definition of a “weapon.”

39. New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-339 provides that “[i]t shall be unlawful for anyone knowingly to: (1) Sell, manufacture, purchase, possess or carry any ... stungun.”

40. Thus, the City of New Orleans outlaws the private possession by Plaintiff of a Taser or stun gun within the state

d. Plaintiff John Ford

41. Plaintiff desires to purchase a stun gun or Taser for self-defense and other lawful purposes in his home.

42. Plaintiff is aware that there are significant and adverse legal, financial, social and psychological ramifications of using deadly force to defend against a home invasion or personal attack. He is aware that even where use of deadly force is justified, a victim forced to use deadly force may be taken into police custody, arrested and prosecuted. He is aware that he would likely have to go to the expense of hiring an attorney to protect his rights in the criminal justice system. He is aware that he would be at the mercy of police, prosecutors and jurors who will have weeks or months to second guess a decision to use deadly force made in seconds in the face of a threatened attack.

43. Plaintiff is aware that even where use of deadly force is justified, a victim may be sued by the perpetrator if the perpetrator survives, or by the perpetrator's family, if the perpetrator does not survive. The victim may have to go to the expense of hiring an attorney to defend the civil proceeding and will be at the mercy of a jury second guessing in the comfort of a jury room the decision to use deadly force made in a seconds in the face of an attack.

44. Plaintiff is aware that persons forced to use deadly force in their defense will likely suffer one or more types of psychological distress. See generally, Alexis Artwohl, Deadly Force Encounters, What Cops Need to Know to Mentally and Physically Prepare for and Survive a Gun Fight (1997), pp. 79-242 (hereinafter "Artwohl").

45. He is aware that persons forced to use deadly force in their defense will likely suffer from the withdrawal and isolation of friends and families, especially if their use of force results in the death of the perpetrator.

46. He is aware that persons forced to use deadly force in their defense will likely suffer from one or more manifestations of Post Violent Event Trauma (“PVET”). Manifestations of PVET can include sleep disturbance including sleeplessly or nightmares, sexual dysfunction or promiscuity, substance abuse, depression or malaise, appetite disturbance, social withdrawal or social ostracism, aggression or avoidance syndrome and flashbacks. See Artwohl.

47. Plaintiff is aware of the potential legal, economic and psychological ramifications of even the justified use of deadly force to defend himself or his home against a violent criminal attack.

48. Plaintiff would prefer to minimize the likelihood that he would have to resort to deadly force in the event he was forced to defend himself or his home from a violent criminal attack.

49. In appropriate circumstances, Plaintiff would prefer to utilize a Taser for defense of himself, his family and his home due to its proven effectiveness and its proven record of minimizing injury to suspects and/or assailants.

50. Plaintiff desires to place an order with Taser International for a Taser Pulse model. However, Plaintiff knows that Tasers are illegal in New Orleans, and thus cannot purchase one. See Exhibit “A.”

51. But for the City of New Orleans' law, Plaintiff would acquire, possess, carry and where appropriate use a Taser device to protect himself and his home.

COUNT I

U.S. CONST., AMEND. II, 42 U.S.C. § 1983 AGAINST ALL DEFENDANTS

52. The Defendants prohibit plaintiff from acquiring, possessing and using a defensive arm in common use, i.e., a Taser. As such it violates plaintiff's Second Amendment rights.

53. Defendants' laws, customs, practices and policies generally banning the acquisition, possession, carrying and use of Tasers and other electronic arms violates the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution, facially and as applied against the plaintiff in this action, damaging plaintiff in violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to preliminary and permanent injunctive relief against such laws, customs, policies, and practices.

COUNT II

U.S. CONST. AMEND. V, 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

54. The City of New Orleans' classification of Tasers as destructive devices is arbitrary and irrational and thus violates the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution in light of the plaintiff's Second Amendment rights to arms for self-defense that are not unusually dangerous.

COUNT III

VIOLATION OF LA. CONST. ART. 1, § 11.

55. The Defendants prohibit plaintiff from acquiring, possessing and using a defensive arm in common use, i.e., a Taser, in violation of La. Const. art. 1, § 11.

56. Defendants' laws, customs, practices and policies generally banning the acquisition, possession, carrying and use of Tasers and other electronic arms violates La. Const. art. 1, § 11, facially and as applied against the plaintiff in this action, damaging plaintiff in violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to preliminary and permanent injunctive relief against such laws, customs, policies, and practices.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff requests that judgment be entered in their favor and against Defendants as follows:

1. An order preliminarily and permanently enjoining Defendants, their officers, agents, servants, employees, and all persons in active concert or participation with them who receive actual notice of the injunction, from enforcing New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-339 to ban the acquisition, possession, carrying or use of Tasers and other electronic arms;

2. An order declaring that New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-339 is unconstitutional and violates the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution;

3. An order declaring that New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-339 is unconstitutional and violates La. Const. art. 1, § 11;

4. An order declaring New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-339 unenforceable;

5. An order declaring New Orleans Municipal Code § 54-1, insofar as it designates Tasers and other electronic arms as prohibited destructive devices, violates the Second and Fifth Amendments to the United States Constitution and La. Const. art. 1, § 11;

6. Costs of suit, including attorney fees and costs pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1988;

7. Such other Declaratory relief consistent with the injunction as appropriate;
and
8. Such other further relief as the Court deems just and appropriate.

DECLARATION OF JOHN FORD

COMES NOW, John Ford, and states as follows:

1. I am an adult male resident of the State of Louisiana and reside in New Orleans.
2. I desire to purchase a stun gun and/or Taser for lawful self-defense and in appropriate circumstances desire to carry said stun gun or Taser for self-defense.
3. New Orleans bans the possession of stun guns and/or Tasers. As such, I am unable to purchase one for lawful self-defense.
4. I would purchase and own, and in appropriate circumstances, carry a stun gun or Taser, but upon information and belief, New Orleans enforces its ban on owning and carrying a stun gun or a Taser, and fear prosecution for owning and carrying a stun gun or a Taser.
5. Therefore, I have refrained from purchasing, owning, carrying or otherwise violating New Orleans' ban on stun guns and Tasers.

FURTHER, AFFIANT SAYETH NAUGHT.

I certify under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
Executed on November 16, 2016.
