LITERATURE REVIEW AND PROPOSED FRAMEWORK

The first sub area in the literature review is the benefits of part time working. This sub area is taking on a part-time job while pursuing a degree is hard work, but the benefits are typically greater than the amount of a paycheck. Students who work during their college careers may have better time-management skills than their counterparts. They must understand responsibility and apply it to their daily lives. They earn money that can be used for fun or for tuition, while gaining experience in the workplace that will be attractive to future employers after graduation.

The second sub area in the literature review is the effect of part time working. Part-time workers usually do not receive benefits such as health insurance, sick leave, holiday pay or vacations. When they are not working, they earn no income, which may prove detrimental during sudden illnesses or if they need to take a break. When times are bad, they are typically laid off before full-timers, because they have less time on the job and do not have the expertise of full-time workers. Part-timers may not be promoted as quickly as regular employees, if at all.

To wrap things up, the third sub ranges in the writing audit is the motivation behind why understudy do low maintenance working. while making low maintenance showing with regards to, understudies can gain cash by their own so they can grow up. Why can individuals experience childhood along these lines? Understudies more often than not spend their folks' cash, they don't need to buckle down so they scarcely know its quality. It's not until they need to attempt their best that they set much esteem on their folks' cash and dependable push to bring them up. When they need to work to acquire cash for themselves, they will beyond any doubt discover how troublesome it is. Besides, youngsters need to manage numerous cumbersome cases that oblige them to respond rapidly however sensibly to get the best result.

CONCLUSIONS

There are advantages and disadvantages for the relationship between part time working and academic qualification. We can see that from positive and negative side of part time working and academic qualification. Part time job can teaches us on how to communicate and interact with others. Thus, it can develop our communication skill even though it is not fluent but at least we can try our best to speak it. It is still a process of learning so people will respect us as a new members of a part time worker.

In addition, when we at the workplace, of course the environment between work and study are very different. Work we need to give a full commitment on a job that we done rather than study we just need to be focus on the subject and also for the assessment that have been given by our lecturers. So it is two different situation. Hence, student cannot anymore be in their comfort zone. I think having a part-time job is extremely good for a high school student in various aspects. Instead of people worrying about the student's grades declining due to having a part-time job, I think they should look at it as a challenge for the student because later in life they will likely face bigger obstacles. Having a part-time job teaches high school students sharp skills which they will need all throughout their careers and lives.
