This is an update and a gratitude post. 😊

We had our week at the beach, and it was such a blessing beyond the telling of it. We didn't do anything special, but all of it WAS special. We ate--at lot!--we talked, we walked on the beach, we played games, we watched movies, we sat in the pool reading, we played football on the beach, we swam . . . and we simply enjoyed each other.

The weather was perfection. The sunrises and sunsets took our breath away. We ate ice cream after dinner one night (thank you, Radonda!! ❤️). We made memories.

I'm adding some pictures here so you can see a little of our time away.

Since we've been back, Clint has been ministering almost non-stop, in the most amazing ways. God has showered all of us with peace and blessings, including with the assurance that we are on the right path. We've seen and heard tremendous affirmation.

We'll both be blogging about these things shortly. Stay tuned!

Meanwhile though, a HUGE thank you to everyone who responded to our transparency about funds. Because of a glitch in the set-up of the non-profit PayPal, we didn't see any of the donations until this week--we didn't even know they were there. But it's been fixed ,and we are truly overwhelmed by your kindness. We'll be reaching out to everyone individually shortly.

We have some cool stuff going forward, and we'll be sharing about all of that . . . shortly! Until then . . .

. know we feel the prayers, we are grateful beyond measure, and we send you all our love. ❤️
