Staging Stories

Saturdays 3:00-6:00

Staging Stories is one of our most daring and unique classes. We will take a pre-existing story, break it down into its story telling elements, and use those elements to essentially build our own show together. Depending on age, interest, and skill level, students will be encouraged to dabble in aspects of theatre far beyond acting – Such as writing, set design, costume design, even directing.

There will be a final performance at the end of the session for students to show off the work they've accomplished together.

February 18 - May 20
