Lean Leaders Meeting Hosted by: Admiral Packaging Providence, RI

The New England Lean Consortium will be holding its January 2019 Lean Leaders Meeting at Admiral Packaging in Providence, RI, on Tuesday, January 29th. Current Lean Consortium members include companies from Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island.

Admiral Packaging, Inc. is a flexible packaging provider. We print, laminate, and convert products into rolls of film and pouches for various customers in food, medical and industrial markets. We provide solutions based on our customers unique needs through our knowledge and experience designing films. We also work with customers on their packaging graphics with our in-house design team.

Harley Frank, the fourth generation of the Frank family, has continued to guide and grow the company through the turn of the century. In 2005, the company changed its name from Union Industries to Admiral Packaging, Inc. to more accurately reflect its commitment to flexible packaging. ”

Through the implementation of LEAN manufacturing principles, Admiral Packaging has reduced its manufacturing square footage and converted the extra space to commercial offices..

LEAN thinking has allowed Admiral Packaging to remain competitive through process efficiencies and lead time reductions in a low volume high mix environment (for a B2B company).

During this tour you will see:

- Point of use material consumption
- Kanban Supermarkets
- Focus on internal customers
- Examples of Kata coaching and problem solving
- Production in a food safe environment
- Use of BI tools to enhance understanding in the workplace.

A Lean Consortium is a group of companies and organizations that get together to help each other on their Lean Continuous Improvement journey by sharing best practices and resources. Facilitated by a Lean CI professional, the Consortium brings together local companies and peers to share, learn and grow with each other on their Lean journey.

You are invited to attend the January 2019 Lean Leaders Meeting.

Who Should Attend?

Those companies that have a Lean Program and would like to take their CI program to a new level. Those companies that would like to benchmark with other companies in New England.

Meeting Content

A Lean Leaders Meeting is an opportunity to learn new approaches to improving a Continuous Improvement Program. Attendees at these meetings can always walk away with some new ideas or new tools that they can apply at their own place of work. The host company benefits from the Meeting through the Plus/Delta Feedback Session as many improving ideas are offered during the session. The main benefit of a Lean Consortium is the fresh pair of eyes that come to a member company, and see the obvious waste. Attendees ask the Why? questions. Why do you do that? Why do you do it that way?
