

SUNGLASSES DR. JEFF BREWER AND DR. JAIMIE KRUGER LEGACY EYECARE

TOO MUCH SUNSHINE and screen time can be harmful to a person's eyes.

Drs. Jeff Brewer and Jaimie Kruger of Legacy Eyecare specialize in protecting and correcting the precious gift of eyesight for patients of all ages.

"Proper lenses make the difference," says Brewer, Legacy Eyecare's owner. "We make sure that all of our patients are getting the best quality glare protection, ultraviolet protection, and blue light protection, so that their vision will remain healthy for the long term."

"Children's eyes are the most vulnerable," says Kruger, a pediatric specialist. "That's why sunglasses and blue-light-protecting computer glasses are a must now. It's important for parents to encourage their children to wear both, especially when they can look really cool choosing from the hot frame selection that Legacy Eyecare offers."

All lenses in glasses purchased from Legacy Eyecare are guaranteed to provide the vision protection that others only claim to provide.
