Dear All,

A quick note regarding the helpshelpyou campaign being run by NHS England.

Helpshelpyou Campaign

NHS England is looking for support from charities in the next push of their helpshelpyou campaign. As well as asking for charities to retweet and support the campaign, they are looking for high profile people or celebrities who may be willing to record a video urging people to get help if they need it. These videos would be used on social media. More information about how you can help with this is given here and the launch date for this stage of the campaign will be shared shortly. For further information please contact Kasia Olszewska at NHS England.

Best wishes,

Jane Lyons
