

Making Your Science Matter:

Engaging with decision-makers to navigate ocean change

Wednesday, February 14

Oregon Convention Center, D139-140

Town Hall: 6:30 PM

Reception: 7:30 PM

Please join us for a lively and interactive discussion, appetizers, and drinks!

Our stellar panel of scientists will share their stories of engaging with decision makers to address multiple dimensions of ocean change.

Hear about their experiences...

- Working with stakeholders
- Building relationships with policy makers
- Bridging the gaps between science and decision-making

You'll have the opportunity to participate in small group discussions with these fantastic, leading-edge scientists following the introductory panel.

Ana Spalding
Oregon State University

Francis Chan
Oregon State University

Malin L. Pinsky
Rutgers University

Tessa M. Hill
University of California, Davis

Moderators: Estelle S. Robichaux & Meg Nakahara, COMPASS

#OSM2018

COMPASS