Michael Kiser's book, "The End Times" is an example of a "think piece", because it does do that very thing. As he attempts to explain that we have been "programmed" to believe a certain way by the religions of the world, while attempting to prove that other beings in conjunction with religious leaders on Earth have conspired from the beginning to not only alter the DNA of species in order to produce humans on this world through thousands of years of manipulations – and failures – but to make the reader think in a different way than he has before. Michael continues to explain the different species that came before mankind. He also points to the religious leaders, as well as governments, who have withheld the truth from man for eons. It is they who have controlled us from the outset over what we can do, think, and even believe while hiding the full truth of enlightenment from the rest of mankind.

Preface

Over the past 35 years I have spent delving deep into all these World religions, along with talking to hundreds of people that lives their life based on their religion. These people have looked at my previous 4 Book series called, 'A Journey Into The Spiritual Quest Of Who We Are', which they have mentioned that they did not want to read any books that deals with Metaphysical or Spirituality.

Therefore, what I am doing with this book is to bring a book about life base of these religious beliefs that is spread across all corners of our World, and there are thousands of books on this. Nevertheless, I plan to show how all these religions are all connected regardless of what region or what part of the world you live in.

You might have a question, is this even possible? The answer is yes, it can be. It is through all of the religions that want you to think that they are 'The Chosen One' by this one being, that is called (GOD), and that all other people are not the chosen one.

Now for those people that have my other books called, 'A Journey Into The Spiritual Quest Of Who We Are', have mentioned that the books are short, but they are packed with straight to the point with vital knowledge that answers the many questions that we all have in our life.

In addition, this book 'The End Times – What Is It Really About?' also has no exceptions to any one religion, as you will see.

This book is not for any one religion, but it is for all religions...

As you Journey through this Book, you will also learn 'The Truth' of what has not been taught to you through any and of all of the religions that exists around our world called Earth.

The reason behind that is that no world religions want you to know the truth that is being hold from all. I have been involved in delving into all of the world religions since 1979 to unlock the truth that is being hidden from all of us, in order to keep all of us from evolving to who we really are.

Chapter 1

The Young Leading the Old

For the past 12,000 years, these early generations were raised to believe and to fear all changes that the Earth was experiencing. ‘Lightning, Floods, Earthquakes, Volcanoes, and Famines are only a few upheavals that were transpiring, resulting in the people believing that these events were due to the wrath of their ‘God’, or the ‘Devil’.

As time progressed, bards who were known as “story tellers”, used poems in either recitation or singing to recite stories about these events to others as they traveled around their country, as well as bordering countries, across the oceans, and eventually, when writing was established, through the written word. Even today, after thousands of generations have passed, the many belief systems still re-tell the same stories within the vast majority of every country and culture. Thus, we have all been raised from the time we are young to believe these same stories whether or not they come through religion. Until another culture arrived in their own civilization, those who had no contact with the outside world thought that these stories were theirs alone until another culture arrived.

Fear drives much of our belief systems. Churches, Temples, of any other religions have driven the fear within us against beings of “Good” and “Evil” as they bring their battles to planet Earth fighting for dominion. These images of battles of good and evil are burned into our minds through these ancient stories are true, and the “proof” of it is written within “The Bible”, and other ancient manuscripts. If we do not do as we are told by the word of “God”, or “gods”, punishment will be swift. A Supreme Being exists within most all religious books, such as “The Bible”. This being is known by many names, such as ‘GOD - Jesus’ in Christianity, ‘Jehovah, Yahovah, Yahweh, Ohrmazda, Mohammed, along with hundreds of other names.

As I mentioned in my four book series, ‘A Journey Into The Spiritual Quest Of Who We Are’, I applied example after example for how, and why these beings designed and created this fear.

The Beings who evolved prior to humans created veils of illusions. They jealously and selfishly guarded their knowledge of life while deliberately preventing humans from evolving and joining their ranks, because humans were beneath them. They did not want other life forms butting into their knowledge, which they considered theirs - alone. Armed with the truth of this knowledge of life, they created a way to hide the truth from humans, effectively preventing them from learning what, and who, they could become. Therefore, they not only posed as older humans, they created lies in the guise of stories. Thus, the younger, human generations were misdirected by continual repetition of the lies. Through repetition, these beings realized that if lies are repeated often enough, eventually, humans would no longer ask questions about whom, or where, their place was in life. They also realized that they needed to do so through the young humans, because older humans are not as acceptable to change. Once these lies were created and continually repeated, they became embedded into the minds of young humans. From generation to generation - each embellishing the lies as time progressed, these beliefs morphed into “gods”. Certain humans realized that the power associated with these “gods”, could be tremendous, and they could control their tribes, towns, cities, and even nations in any way they wished. The few who understood this, began to develop the first religions based upon the lies, and a hierarchy was established within religion, which gave these humans great power over how all other humans believed.

Finally, the influence of the lies became real, and no human ever questioned the truth, again. More and more religious beliefs were established and divided. This gave the higher beings full, and total control over humans and civilizations. Therefore, by these beliefs, it became easy to manipulate the human world. Their misdirection worked! It is not surprising that there is no doubt that we all still live in fear of these beings. The ancient beings were firmly ensconced into our world as “gods”, a specific theme entwined around them. At first, humans believed their “gods” had nothing but respect and love for humans. In time, a new idea arose. Humans began to believe that the “gods” manipulated human history, and cared nothing for the human world. The idea that they sat upon their thrones, and played with human lives, became well known throughout the world, and this belief flourished as it spread. “Gods” were simply acting roles, and calling themselves “gods”. Human belief in them dwindled. While these ancient “gods” were pushed aside long ago, some of the most popular remain in our religions, today.

Within my other books, it is obvious that for the last 2,000 - 3,000 years to the present, no one has seen the so-called “gods” in which our ancestors believed. However, it is truly amazing that even today, people still fear the same stories in books such as, 'The Bible', as well as other books and/or scrolls.

It is quite obvious that earthquakes, weather/climate, volcanoes, floods, and other earth changing events are no more than normal for our Earth. Even in the event of illnesses and plagues, today's humans no longer believe there is no "god" or "devil" causing these events. They are all natural events, and many of them are cyclical. In the face of the age of the Earth, and the fact that documentation of "normal" was not available until the mid-1800's, perhaps it is time to blame ourselves for some of the Earth changes that mankind has created.

Humankind devised the ideas of religion with "gods", "devils", as well as other deities, were made simply because they did not want to take the blame for some of the things erupting around humankind. Instead of judging ourselves, the need to have a great being judge us seems to be inborn into us. Why humans have not caught on by now is puzzling.

After hearing the same, repetitive stories without witnessing a single "god" worldwide, people still say, "god says I must believe and act this way - or else."

Some people, when asked if they have seen a "god", say, "No. There is no one next to me. But, I heard a voice, which told me that I must believe this way."

But, truth be known, if I heard a voice, I would ask him to prove he is a “god”. Knowing that all beings evolve at different times in existence, this still does not make saying one is a “god” is true! The stories are nothing more than what they are - stories. Because of the wide belief in the existence of a “god” and/or “devil”, humans will still not question them, but instead, they pass them down to the subsequent generations. As long as this fear is within each of us, we will never ask questions. And, if they do, others will point and call them stupid or ignorant. And, because of others’ beliefs in religion, the perpetuation will continue to grow. Another problem that mankind seems to possess is that most all of us live in fear of asking questions! In school, who voluntarily raises their hand to ask a question when surrounded by their peers and friends? Answer is...most all of us!

By creating confusion, it would be easy to keep humans in a “stagnant evolution”. By continuing to perpetuate the idea that “gods” will judge you based only upon religious beliefs while embellishing these stories as time progresses, it continues to confuse humans. In fact, because the stories do change is the very reason that they are kept alive as they are passed down to man. Designed this way keeps the confusion and fear flowing from age to age.

What a terrible way to live life! To be controlled by other beings who pretend to be “gods”! Why would anyone consider living a life under this condition? One is nothing more than a puppet and the strings are being pulled from thousands of years ago! Why would one surrender the essence or energy of life to others who seek to control not only you, but also those who come after you!

Throughout my four book series, ‘A Journey Into The Spiritual Quest Of Who We Are’, I have attempted to explain that they use different ways to control us. Humiliating us into believing what they tell us is the main way to keep us from asking questions. Therefore, we continue in ignorance, and our puppeteers pull at our strings.

These veils are subtle, and are used in stories, books, television, movies, and now, the internet. The following are two examples.

Example #1 is based on the Star Wars movies with the use of The Force, which can create both positive and negative energies. One is a being drawn to negative energy. It is used to control others, because the perception is that their power is stronger. Humans are forced to bow down to these beings while continuing to live in fear of being destroyed. This keeps them in constant fear, and so, they obey. This is an example of negative energy.

Example #2 is from the movie Stargate, the TV series, Stargate SG-1, into Stargate: Atlantis. A being known as the “Goa’uld” (pronounced “go-a-uld”). These beings evolved as far as possible in their real form. Yet, can no longer continue to live without a host to survive. Thus, it is, essentially, a parasite. However, by taking a host, usually human, it can give the human a few extra hundred years until that body becomes unsustainable, and the parasite must leave that body to seek another. The human is pushed to the side, but with the Goa’uld taking over the mind of the human. It is feasible that this serpent being could live indefinitely as long as there are unlimited humans to serve as hosts. In this case, they make sure humans continue to breed by masquerading as “gods”. The Goa’uld conquers civilizations, and by using some magical “mumbo-jumbo” that the humans have never seen, evoke fear within the population by severe punishment, which stops the humans from trying to seek a way to freedom. Therefore, with humans, the Goa’uld have a continuing supply of hosts.

This is a perfect example of what I am attempting to prove. By keeping humans ignorant of the truth, their beliefs are set, and no one questions the truth. In this case, humans from Earth believe in another type of deity, and not in the Goa’uld. Once this group begins to question who these beings are, they quickly discover the lie of the “gods” in the past on Earth.

It is all about control. Period. The stories create the illusion of “gods” followed by repetition to the young that perpetuates fear among the population. The stories continue to be passed on, and humans are gullible. They will believe anything that gives them a glimpse of hope.

Except for some, most of everyone today has lived their life by these stories. In addition, it is their strong, religious belief that keeps humans in fear of being punished. We are conditioned not to ask by religious doctrines.

But, there are those of us who are not fooled by the truth. Control is no longer binding them to a spark – a light within them that awakened us, and realize that everything around them are nothing but illusions, which are controlling them. Then, humans begin their journey of a spiritual quest in order to learn who a human is.

Heads of the major religions, especially, are not taking this lightly. They know that they will lose their control and, more importantly, their power over the people. As this expands, the loss of this power angers them. As more people begin to shed these veils, they begin to see the truth about life.

When all else has failed, now, they lay claim the End Times are here. For over 12,000 years, humans have heard this. Yet, still, more and more people are leaving churches, synagogues, temples, and other religions despite the constant testimony about the End Times, and Earth changes such as droughts, plagues, earthquakes, floods, and volcanoes are proof of this. And, we are told that every 1000 years, a battle of good and evil comes on Earth. All to see which group will be victorious enough to rule humans for another 1000 years. And, finally, a massive war will descend onto Earth to end our existence in this life. In this case, this is the current belief.

Materialism vs. Spiritualism

Life is truly complex. Some people say life is nothing more than being born. They believe it is only living to a certain age, and then, you. Your soul is sent “somewhere” where a “God”, or “gods”, judges your works, and that decision places you for all of eternity. This could be “heaven” or “hell”, “purgatory”, “Hades”, or the “Elysian Fields”. It depends upon the belief and doctrine of the religion one in which one is a member.

But, there is more to life than being born, dying, or being judged. Mankind breeze through life with millions upon millions of experiences - from the smallest which we do not always notice to the life altering experiences. Death is just one of many life-altering experiences, and is the very one we refuse to acknowledge until someone close to us dies. Then, we are forced to confront it. We ask many questions:

“Why did this person have to die?”

“Why did this person have to die in this manner?”

And, of course, the most important one word question that encompasses all of it, yet taught not to ask?

Simply - “Why?”

No answer comes, and understanding eludes us.

Six billion people on Earth, and each one of us has different and unique experiences. It is quite surprising that no two of us have the same experience. In order to understand where we fit into the world, and why we have different experiences, we must understand the complexity and the consciousness of our world, before we can begin to understand our place on Earth, and then, to look within our own existence and experiences.

Despite growing up in different cultures and/or beliefs, most realize that Earth is a living entity that has lived through eons of time. It is ageless. And, if it could talk, imagine what it could tell us! Some truly believe, as do I, that the Earth has its own consciousness - that it is a highly evolved being. That it is alive. But, perhaps the Earth is speaking to us? Proof exists in the weather, volcanoes, earthquakes, collisions with celestial bodies, floods, and so much more. No day is the same around the world. Just the thought of it is too immense and spans time itself.

But, why is this happening? The Earth tilts upon its axis and flips randomly throughout its existence. Sometimes, slowly while other times instantly. Even though it has not happened in man's memory does not mean it does not happen. Humanity is a bit too arrogant to believe that they know the Earth's past, when the opposite is true. These events causes oceans to shift to new locations moving over the continents changing main lands and islands alike. And, as the oceans flood over the landscape, the waters destroy civilized cities in different time periods - essentially wiping them from existence while forcing those lucky enough to have survived to higher ground, or ships. The lost knowledge with that destruction becomes new, yet again, as mankind relearns all of it through years, and it could very well take thousands of years to relearn what was lost. What they believe is new land far away is nothing more than the changing landscape. Continents, which were, are no more. Islands, which were, are no more. Both being replaced by the receding floods while reshaping the dry land. The world they knew is, now, gone.

Thus, civilizations begin anew.

In addition to the changes in, and on, the Earth, man's soul and/or spirit also changes. The International Society for Krishna Consciousness is one of the many movements for the spiritual reorientation of man through a simple process of chanting the holy names of god. It is believed that humans should realize that our material life ends in nothing less than misery. While everyone else bustles about in their material ways, this Society is trying to end these miseries. Yet, it points out that even with the procurement of material existence, it is only a temporary happiness for man. Unfortunately, many scientists deny the existence of anything spiritual, and that it is, ultimately, the living force within each human. Science cannot explain all, nor can they explain why as man's physical body changes, so does the mind, spirit, and soul.

Earth undergoes changes of night and as well as four seasons in many places. Others see only one or two seasons. The more primitive mentalities attributed this phenomenon to our star that is called 'Apsu', or the Sun. Primitive people thought the sun was getting weaker, and presumed at night that the sun was dead when it was simply rising in another part of the world. Today, we are far more advanced, and we see that the sun does not change at all, but the changes are due simply by the relative positions of the Earth to the Sun. Just as primitive tribes believe that the sun dies at sunset, those with less intelligence, but who believe they are more intelligent, presume that after death, the spirit's existence is forever finished. However, unknown to modern society, once the body becomes old, the soul sheds it like an old garment and accepts another body.

The “constitutional position” of the soul is due strictly to manmade belief systems, which keep man from the truth. Departments in different universities, and / or many technological institutions, study the subtle laws of a material nature. There are also medical research laboratories, which study the physiological condition of the material body, but there is no institution to study the “constitutional position” of the soul. This is the greatest drawback of materialistic civilization, which is simply an external manifestation of the soul.

While people are enamored of the human body, or even the cosmic bodies, they do not understand the true basic principle. While all of it is beautiful, man attributes energy and traits to talent and brains, but the moment the soul leaves the body, the body becomes useless. Scientists cannot trace personal self. Yet, it is the soul that is the cause of the incredible discoveries that science has made.

~ The Krsna Consciousness Movement

through science and philosophy is trying to make others aware of the soul. While not through dogma, they seek to do so through scientific and philosophical understanding to which one can perceive the presence of a super soul and consciousness, which resides in man's mortal consciousness.

~ In the Vedanta sutra, or the Vedanta philosophy, absolute truth is explained through the Srimad – Bhagavatam, which is a commentary by the same author, and the Bhagavatam – gita is the preliminary study of the Srimad - Bhagavatam for understanding the constitutional position of the supreme lord, or the absolute truth. ~

The Three Aspects of the Soul

Consciousness and heart, or the spirit and person. The absolute truth consists in the impersonal Brahman, followed by “one's own point of view of GOD“. It becomes a localized super soul (Paramatma), and as the supreme personality of a godhead representing “all” - Krsna. Krsna exists simultaneously with Brahman, Paramatma, and Godhead. Moreover, it is similar to mankind in both soul and person - two consciousness's.
