“Kara's made mistakes but she is ridiculously selfless, there's something we could all learn from her.”

James slides into the plastic bucket seat across from us, his fingers gliding through his tousled hair and down to the collar on his white pressed shirt, where he tugs at it enough to make us watch. He's calm and together, but we expect nothing less from a man that just arrived in sleek black sports car that looks like it's worth more than an income we'd pull in over our entire lives. He orders a black Earl Grey and after one sip, he sets the cup down, and focuses his intense dark eyes on us.

MALICE: So, James...you were recently featured in the novella True Bond. Can you tell us a little what it was like to relive the beginning of your relationship with Kara?

JAMES DRAY: Completely unsatisfying and almost a bit too real. I suppose that was the point Bella Johnson was going for, knowing her version of entertainment.

M: When you aren't slaying demons, or wooing Kara, what does a lycan like to do in his free time?

JD: Wow, I definitely spend too much time wooing Kara.

M: On that topic then, in the past, has Kara imparted any wisdom to you that still resonates deeply today?

JD: Kara's made mistakes but she is ridiculously selfless, there's something we could all learn from her.

“Walking away from her was not the original sacrifice I intended it to be.”

M: What was the hardest sacrifice you had to make because of the True Bond?

JD: I doubt Kara would really call being a prat a 'sacrifice' but walking away from her was not the original sacrifice I intended it to be. Luckily, we get past that issue.

M: And what can we expect to see in Kindred (Book Three, Heart of Hunters)?

JD: A whole lot of me sucking ass.

M: So, you're in the dog-house?

JD: I'm not sure if that's witty sarcasm, but I'll give you points for it. The dog-house it is.

M: Do you get out of it again?

JD: There's a lot of involvement to my stupidity, you'll just have to read the book to find out how much.

M: Fair enough! You're going to a deserted island, and can only bring three things with you...

JD: That's fairly self-explanatory. Kara, a football and my cell phone – so I can call for a pick up once we're done having fun.

M: What is your most memorable shift?

JD: Undoubtedly, saving Kara from the demon that was stalking her. There was something fulfilling about it. Like I was making up for being for being stupid to her, even if she didn't know it was me.

M: Cats or dogs?

JD: Neither. Next question.

M: Boxers or briefs?

JD: Though I do believe in wearing clothing, I don't find the attraction to wearing more than necessary. Briefs.

M: If you could give any advice to someone going through a tough time, what would it be?

JD: That it'll only stay as tough as you let it.

M: Favorite weapon of choice?

JD: My fist, or in certain circumstances...

M: What's the best prank you've ever pulled?

JD: I prefer to sit and watch people make fools of themselves all on their own.

M: Thanks for sitting down with us James. Hope it was as fun for you as it was for us!
