

#FemkuMag

issue six

#FemkuMag

An e-zine of Women's Haiku issue six

November 2018

cover art: Lori A Minor a note from me to you

Once again, you ladies have provided another spectacular issue! I am thrilled to see the positive responses from both women and men. It's just so lovely!

I would like to thank Garry Eaton for including #FemkuMag in the Haiku Foundation Digital Library. Archives can be found here:

<http://www.thehaikufoundation.org/omeka/items/show/5628>

Make sure you check out the Femku Feature by Robin Anna Smith on the last page! You won't want to miss this incredible piece!

Stay radical,
Lori A Minor, editor

low self esteem
the half-open camellia ready to fall

– Hifsa Ashraf

awkward pedestal
the fragile height of her stilettos

– Gail Oare

rain in the river of her efforts

– Julie Warther

food pantry
he hands her a bag of lemons

– Julie Warther

only darkness in the cradle hunger moon

– Rachel Sutcliffe

leaf skeleton how fragile we become

– Rachel Sutcliffe

after her chemo grandma teaches me to powder my nose

– Lucy Whitehead

a giant flower
on every wall breast clinic

– Lucy Whitehead

the wound
that forever changed us bird of paradise

– Kelly Sauvage Angel

my arguments holding water this month

– Kelly Sauvage Angel

a dragonfly's stillness we have nothing left to say

– Deborah P Kolodji

what you hid from me mud shark

– Deborah P Kolodji

wild mushroom – will you be friend or foe

– Valentina Ranaldi-Adams

meerkats
Mom
tells us to stand up straight

barnacles cling to old pilings of grudges

– Debbie Strange

– Debbie Strange

into the thick of war the children we were longing for

– Eva Limbach

sudden chill – stealthily I try on mother's shoes

– Eva Limbach

cracked limestone half my family estranged

– Tia Haynes

smoke and ash
all the ways
I tried to leave

– Tia Haynes

fatal flaw insisting I throw away my imperfect vase

– Kath Abela Wilson

burned out bulb my dark circles even darker

– Cyndi Lloyd

forced rhubarb
she married too young to know

– Martha Magenta

her trips to the botox clinic autumn leaves

– Martha Magenta

All Saints' Day —
all her aborted babies candlelit

– Réka Nyitrai

bird clouds —
trying to love myself

– Réka Nyitrai

a womb
filled with cloud... never-child

– Jan Benson

long journey her fingers touch the missing ring

– Anna Maris

streetlight... the shadow of mother's hand adjusting my headscarf

– Praniti Gulyani

dabbing at her dry eyes with the ends of her burqa
...war memorial

– Praniti Gulyani

father's room touching his things with my breath

– Nina Kovačić

hiking trails
the loneliness of November night

– Rađostina Dragostinova

first bike ...
dad's hands
hold the seat

la prima bici ... la mano di papà
tiene il sellino

– Lucia Cardillo

martian (girl)
comes on earth...
not me too

– Pat Geyer

party punch bowl too many me too's

– Susan Burch

Sunday pancakes staring at my breasts

– Susan Burch

red tide
his excuse for all my anger

– Yvette Nicole Kolodji

the ease of the b word waterfall spray

– Yvette Nicole Kolodji

first tampon—
forgetting to breathe

– Corine Timmer

power cut—
just you and me now

– Corine Timmer

descending fog colours of childhood grip her ailing mind

- Christina Chin

as I prise open her window the stained net billows blue butterfly

- Helen Buckingham

cicada husks
I don't speak up about the rape

- Lori A Minor

scraping the seawall I finally learn to say no

- Lori A Minor

Femku Feature by Robin Anna Smith

Kippers and Toast

I wake up well-rested. It's finally the day I've planned for all year. I pull up the shades and look out to a clear, bright sky. While the shower heats up, I go to my closet and pull out my gown—ivory taffeta and tulle with apricot flowers embroidered.

I bathe, then sculpt my hair and apply makeup. Dressing, I take special care to add all of the accessories: stockings, jewelry, tiara, and heels. I give myself a final look and then walk downstairs to put on some tea.

Using my grandma's handed-down china, I situate the table settings and lay out plates of food. The kettle whistles; I bring it to the table and pour. As I take a seat, my cats come to join me. The four of us enjoy breakfast. When we're finished, the cats lick their paws as I move the dishes to the kitchen.

steeped catnip the desire for more than a man

I grab a glass and pop a bottle of Dom Pérignon, a wedding gift I was instructed to keep. The cats and I relocate to the living room to cuddle. I search Netflix for movies that feature cancelled weddings. With each runaway bride or groom, I feel more at peace, content with my decision. Perhaps it's the champagne.

At eight p.m., I wake up on the couch looking like a drunken bride after a wild reception. Crumb-covered breasts making their way out of the gown's stained neckline. Hose and bra in a ball on the coffee table. Shoes missing. Tiara cocked sideways. Makeup smeared.

I get up, stretch, and lead the cats upstairs. I set out their dinner, then wash my face and brush my teeth. I slip out of my dress and into bed...

sideways sleeping alone in a king-sized bed