

Media contact: Laura Bennett, Bennett & Company Marketing, 407/478-4040

Correctional Programs Expands Reach Globally Celebrates 7th Anniversary

Orlando, FL (March 18, 2014) --- As a 25 year veteran of corrections, Ricky McIntosh, president of Correctional Programs is all about his customers; and he only sells to correctional facilities.

“Correctional professionals do not have time to deal with companies that do not understand their day-to-day needs,” said McIntosh. “They deal with life and death issues; my job is to make one small part of their responsibilities as worry-free as possible.”

As the company celebrates its 7th year, McIntosh has greatly expanded his search for products needed by correctional facilities. Books in Spanish and English, paperbacks and hard backs, are the most popular products sold and to offer a wide variety of titles and quality books, McIntosh now buys from publishers in Spain, Mexico and Canada, among others.

“I personally review every book in every shipment and store our books in a secure location to assure our products are appropriate for inmate use and our customers know what they are getting is safe.”

Musical instruments, musical equipment and a re-entry program called Targeting Success are products that are growing in sales too.

“When I started this company we only sold a few products and only had a few suppliers. Today I buy from suppliers around the world so I have a constant source of quality merchandise at a below-market price,” he said.

When asked about his plans for the next 7 years, McIntosh said he is open to any new products his customers need and added “as long as there are correctional professionals that have a need, I will be a very busy guy.”

About Correctional Programs LLC

Correctional Programs sells educational and leisure products to correctional facilities. All items are chosen to meet the educational and recreations needs of facilities in the USA. The company’s website is www.CorrectionalPrograms.com and the office telephone number is 407-682-2328.