Letter of Agreement Describing Placenta Encapsulation Services

Placenta Encapsulation Description

Placenta encapsulation is the process of preparing the mother's placenta after the birth of her baby by dehydrating, powdering and placing it into capsules for the mother to use as she sees fit. I use a modified raw method meaning the placenta is sliced in it's raw state before dehydrating at 160* for a minimum of 24 hours.

Limitations and Disclaimer

I am not a licensed medical professional and I am not able to diagnose, treat or prescribe for any health condition. Services and fees are for the preparation and encapsulation of your placenta, not for the sale of the capsules. No specific benefits or effects are promised. Any benefits will vary from person to person. Some of the ascribed benefits of placenta consumption are supported by research; however these benefits have not been evaluated or approved by the FDA. It is your responsibility to determine whether using placenta preparations may be of benefit to you.

Client Responsibility

It is your responsibility to notify me as soon after the birth as possible to make arrangements for pick up, drop off, or for me to come to your home. Failure to do so may result in delayed placenta preparation and encapsulation and may cause spoilage of the placenta which would render it unusable for encapsulation.

It is your responsibility to discuss release of your placenta from the hospital where you give birth and to ensure proper storage of your placenta. Whether birthing at home or in a hospital, please ensure that your placenta is kept fresh. It can remain at room temperature for 2-3 hours following the birth, less time is preferred if possible, to inhibit bacterial growth. A refrigerator or cooler with filled with ice works well until it can be picked up or delivered for preparation and encapsulation. If using a cooler, please be sure the ice is replenished as needed to maintain a consistent cold temperature. Do not use ice packs as they do not keep the placenta cold enough.

If it will be more than 3 or 4 days before the placenta can be prepared, it should be frozen. A frozen placenta will take somewhat longer to prepare since I prefer to gently defrost it prior to preparation. You can prepare your placenta for transport by placing it in a couple of large, freezer strength Ziploc bags or in a large plastic yogurt or ice cream container, then into a cooler with ice or into a refrigerator.

It is important to note that there may be circumstances under which your placenta can not be used. Significant abnormalities of the placenta may necessitate your doctor or midwife sending your placenta to Pathology for further examination. Other conditions, such as signs of infection in the mother during labor or chorioamnionitis, may mean that consuming your placenta will not be beneficial to you. If in doubt, I will consult with you before proceeding. It should be possible to claim your placenta after a cesarean delivery. Please alert me if a fever is present during labor. Meconium does NOT render the placenta unusable. Please notify me if there is meconium present at birth. Group B Strep does not render the placenta unusable.
