

March Newsletter 2015

Check out this nice looking book from Memoir for Me!

Greetings!

Hooray - spring is finally here!

March has been an exciting month for Memoir for Me. I wanted to share the above image of the finished memoir for a very special subject: my dad! He's an amazing guy and I'm thrilled we captured special memories from his life to share as a family. More product details are posted on our website.

MfM also had a booth this past weekend at the Our Lady of Victory Spring Market and made many new friends. Thanks to everyone who came out.

Finally, MfM is hosting a free memoir-writing workshop at the Jefferson Park branch of the Chicago Public Library (5363 W. Lawrence Ave.) on April 25th at 2pm. Come and learn how to capture your own life story! You can register by calling the branch at 312-744-1998.

Featured Memoir: Bob (Butch) Kalchbrenner

Both sets of Bob's grandparents were Austrian immigrants. His parents, Wilma and Robert, both spoke Austrian fluently, but raised their kids speaking English.

Wilma kept the house humming and Bob and his sister Lois in line. On rare occasions when the two children would bicker, Wilma sat both of them on opposite sides of a large server, where Bob and Lois had to sit in penance and stare at each other, making faces when their mom was not looking.

Butch had a great relationship with his father, who treated his only son with respect.

"He never treated me like a kid. He treated me like a man."

Lois, 1942

Bob and his sister

Thanks for reading! Remember, Mother's Day is May 10th! Memoir for Me can create a gift she will never forget. Contact us for more details.

Visit our updated website for new price options and other info! »

Memoir for Me

773-294-2449 | nora@memoirforme.com

<http://memoirforme.com>